CHILD, 6, IS FOUND CHAINED IN HOLE IN DESERT WASTE

Weak From 19 Days' of Imprisonment, Girl Is Mentally Sound and Recovers Sufficiently To Greet Joyous Crowd.

NO RANSOM PAID SCARED SNATCHERS

Letter From Chicago to Governor of Arizona Tells Location of Earth-ern Prison.

(Copyright, 1934, by Associated Press.)
TUCSON, Ariz., May 14.—(AP)—Six-year-old June Robles was found alive today, chained in a cactus-covered hole in the desert, and restored without payment of ransom to the arms of her prostrated mother.

The schoolgirl, seized by kidnapers April 25, was ill and too weak to talk, but she quickly responded to care when she was brought home nine and one-half miles from the desolate spot where she was discovered.

"I want my mama," little June cried as she was delivered from the hole, which had been scooped out to simulate a shallow grave—2 1/2 feet wide 6 feet long and 3 feet deep.

Following instructions in a special delivery air mail letter received from Chicago by Governor R. B. Moore, Clarence Houston, Pima county attorney, and Carlos Robles, an uncle of the girl, sped to the spot.

Chains were on June's ankles. She was deeply unburned and covered with the dirt of the desert.

Over the grave-like hole in which she was found was a thicket of cactus, supported by tin and burlap. Houston and the uncle said she probably had been in the hole most of the three weeks since she was snatched from a street here while on the way home from school and held hostage for $15,000.

The communication which solved the mystery of the little girl's whereabouts was not signed. The handwriting was declared by officials to be identical with that of the ransom note received by her father, Fernando Robles, two hours after she was abducted.

When she was lifted out of her close prison, marks of the binding chain links showed on her ankles.

Taken to Robles Home. Her exhaustion yielded quickly to care at the home of aged Bernabe Robles, her grandfather, however, and she soon was able to appear on the porch in the arms of her father, and throw kisses to shouting hundreds of Tucson citizens milling in the street.

The child was mentally alert and at first was skeptical of County Attorney Houston when he approached the little pit and hailed her.

"Are you dead, honey?" Houston called. He had hurried ahead of the uncle, for fear the relative would come too quickly and hailed her.

June looked up, then turned away.

"Hello," a little voice answered. Houston stopped and peered through crevices in the heavy top that had been built over the pit where June was.

NATION WATCHES STATE ELECTIONS

Pennsylvania, New Jersey to Name Candidates Today for Major Offices.

By the Associated Press.
Forty-eight house members, two senators and two governors looked anxiously Monday at the polls of Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Of them, chief national interest perhaps centered on the contest between the veteran Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Governor Gifford Pinchot, for the republican senatorial nomination.

A curious admixture of politics, too, had Joseph F. Guffey, the Roosevelt state leader, tussling Roland S. Morris, a former ambassador to Japan, for the democratic nomination to oppose the winner of the Reed-Pinchot contest in the November balloting.

Pinchot has endorsed President Roosevelt's policies.

In New Jersey, there was less uncertainty about the outcome of the senatorial race. Senator Kean was opposed for the republican nomination by former Assemblyman James Blauvelt, and seemed likely to be re-nominated. Governor A. Harry Moore was unopposed for the democratic senatorial nomination.

REGENTS TO PASS ON PLAN PLEDGING ASSETS OF UNITS

Board Called Into Session Saturday to Act on $2,817,400 Fund Which Would Result in Improvements for Schools.

HIGH COURT RULING CALLED FOR IN PLAN

Athens Would Get $900,400 Under Contract Drawn and Atlanta Units Total of $898,300.

The board of regents of the university system will meet Saturday morning to act on a plan with the federal public works administration calling for a loan and grant of $2,817,400 for improvements and additions to the units of the system. The contract calls for a loan totaling $2,180,000 and a grant totaling $637,400.

The contract, approved by the PWA, arrived Monday and Chairman Marion Smith, of Atlanta, immediately called the board for Saturday in order that the final agreement may be acted upon without delay.

The improvements and additions are confined to self-liquidating projects which in time will pay for themselves, but should the board adopt necessary regulations it will be necessary for the regents to go into court and obtain judicial approval of their pledging the assets of the project, if the regents act favorably, the matter to be laid before a judge of the Fulton superior court and if approved a fast bill of exceptions will be sought to take the matter at once to the supreme court.

A final decision by the court in less than 60 days is considered likely if the high court is called upon to pass on its legality.

Each institution responsible. The federal government contract, which was drawn to meet the peculiar requirements of Georgia, which has constitutionally limited the borrowing powers of its various agencies, provides that each institution benefited by the loan and grant will be responsible for the state of Georgia, nor shall the state of Georgia be liable for the contract and that no institution will be responsible for the pledges made on behalf of other institutions.

The contract specifically provides that the debentures sold to the federal government shall not constitute an indebtedness by or on behalf of the state of Georgia, nor shall the credit of the state of Georgia be, in any way, pledged for the payment thereof, in whole or in part.

The plane was flying high in an easterly direction, according to word received here. The weather was clear at the time.

Lightning Strikes Tree On White House Grounds

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Lightning struck a huge maple tree at the Pennsylvania avenue entrance of the White House grounds today, tipping off a slice of bark about 30 feet in length and a foot wide.

The bolt sent a resounding crash through the White House. The storm broke in late afternoon when a number of guests were entering the grounds to attend a White House lawn party. No one was injured.

U. S. CONTROL SEEN ON COTTON MARTS

House Committee Decides To Extend Scope of Commodities Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The house agriculture committee today decided to include cotton exchanges with grain markets in the administration's commodities exchange control bill, a move which would lead to the imposition of governmental regulation on virtually all of the nation's trading marts.

Legislation to regulate stocks and securities markets already has been passed by both senate and house and was sent to conference today for the settling of differences between them.

The companion measure to govern trading in grain markets was approved by the house agriculture committee last week, and subsequently added by President Roosevelt to legislation he wants passed before adjournment.

Cotton was left out but the committee decided today to write it in when the bill comes to the house floor. Originally cotton was in the commodity measure, but was voted out before the agriculture committee sent the bill to the rules committee. Chairman Jones, democrat, Texas, of the former committee, plans to ask the rules committee tomorrow for legislative right-of-way to expedite the legislation.

The placing of the commodity bill by the president on his "must" list.

SENATE APPROVES AID FOR INDUSTRY

$530,000,000 in R. F. C. Reserve Credit Is Voted for Business Loans.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—A bill to help business obtain the money it needs to operate was passed today by the senate after a series of votes that closed reconstruction corporation coffers to other proposals but forbade political considerations from playing a part in loan negotiations.

The measure would make available $530,000,000 of Reconstruction Corporation and federal reserve credit to industries.

It provides for the creation of a $280,000,000 fund in the federal reserve banks for rediscounting paper representing five-year loans to industry and for setting up a $250,000,000 revolving fund in the RFC for direct loans to business.

How to Apply. Individuals desiring loans through the RFC board in Washington.

Under the federal reserve section of the bill, borrowers would apply at the federal reserve bank in their district. If they had been unable to obtain credit through the usual banking channels, the bill provides the loan would have to be on a "reasonable and sound basis."

First, however, they would seek the five-year credit from their own banker, who could discount the note with the federal reserve bank, by taking 20 percent of the risk.

Rejection of amendments would have permitted loans to municipalities on tax anticipation warrants, 20-year loans to municipally-owned power plants, and more liberal loans on collateral furnished the RFC by closed banks.

Sharp Debate. The most sharply worded debate was drawn by the anti-politics amendment offered by Senator Black, democrat.

RAID BY OFFICERS ON SUBURB FREES KIDNAPERS' VICTIM

Gettle Found Bound and Gagged After Detectives Arrest 'Phone User and Force Information; One Arrested With Victim.

FOUR MORE HELD AS HIDEOUT OPENS

One Admits Being Look-Out for Abductors; Raid Comes as Effort To Pay Ransom Fails.

LOS ANGELES, May 14.—(AP)—William F. Gettle, worn and haggard but unharmed, was delivered from his kidnapers tonight in a spectacular raid on a small La Crescenta home by sheriff's officers and police.

Acting on a tip received earlier in the day the officers raided a house at 4256 Rosemont avenue, La Crescenta, north of Glendale, and arrested a man who gave his name as Roy Williams. A second man ran from the house and escaped.

On a bed inside the house the officers found the Beverly Hills millionaire, who was kidnaped from his country estate at Arcadia last Wednesday midnight as an all-day party was drawing to a close. Gettle lay flat on his back, his hands bound and a court plaster mask over his face.

Officers said he was unable to speak for a few minutes, but in route to the sheriff's office told them the man who escaped was the "real brains" of the kidnap gang.

News that he had been freed spread so rapidly that several hundred persons were crowded about the sheriff's office when they arrived with the man for whose safe return a futile attempt had been made early today to pay $80,000 ransom.

Three Taken Into Custody. This afternoon, a man giving the name of Jimmy Kirk, and two women who said they were Ann Williams and June Ward were taken into custody at a Los Angeles apartment.

Desiring Lieutenants C. Burris and H. P. Garbarino to trace them from a telephone call made by a man from a drug store on South Western avenue to a member of the Gettle family, the Kirk's possession they found a card bearing the address of the kidnaped millionaire's home at 724 North Linden drive, Beverly Hills, and the name of Gettle.

After questioning Kirk, the officers said they obtained the address of the La Crescenta house where Gettle was found.

Kirk, 38, June Ward, said by officers to be his wife, and William and Roy Williams, 39, were held on suspicion of kidnaping. A fifth, "Red" Hoyle, was taken in custody today for questioning.

Williams, questioned by authorities, said he was an auto mechanic and a ranch hand. He said that two days before the kidnaping he met in a beer parlor two men whom he knew only as "Johnny" and "Tommy."

They broached the kidnaping of Gettle to him, he said, and, when he agreed to join in the scheme, set him to watch the Arcadia estate of the Gettles.

He watched the place closely, he said, and Wednesday, the night of the party given by the Gettles in celebration of the completion of their new swimming pool, advised "Tommy" and "Johnny."

Williams declared he had no part in the actual kidnaping.

Captain William E. Bright, of the sheriff's homicide detail, announced no ransom was paid.

Gettle, as he was led through the crowd about the hall of justice where the sheriff's office is located, wore the glasses he was believed to have lost as he was hoisted over the wall of his Arcadia estate. Over these were a pair of smoked glasses, apparently given him by the kidnapers to wear as a disguise.

Gettle Drawn and Haggard. Although he seemed drawn and haggard, there was a faint smile about

Letters of Dickens To His Wife

A Tragic Record of Love, Disillusionment and Farewell.

(This is the third of a series of articles presenting, in the first publication of this correspondence anywhere, the intimate letters of Charles Dickens to his wife. They begin with the days of the great novelist's courtship of Catherine Hogarth and lead through their marriage and its early harmony and later unhappiness to the separation which meant the tragic parting of their ways.)

(Copyright, 1934, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.) (All rights reserved.)

In a long missive to his fiancée, Catherine Hogarth, Charles Dickens gave the cruel side of an election 100 years ago.

You will see or hear by the Chronicle of yesterday, that we had a slight flare here yesterday morning, just stopping short of murder and a riot. . . . Such a ruthless set of bloody-minded villains I never set eyes on, in my life. In their convivial moments yesterday after the business of the day was over, they were perfect savages. If a foreigner were brought here on his first visit to an English town to form his estimate of the national character, I am quite satisfied he would return forthwith to France, and never set foot in England again. The remark will apply in a greater or less degree to all agricultural places during the pendency of an election, but bestially as the electors usually are, these men are superlative blackguards.

Would you believe that a large body of horsemen, mounted and armed, who galloped on a defenseless crowd yesterday, striking about them in all directions, and protecting a man who coked a loaded pistol, were led by clergymen, and magistrates? Or that I saw one of these fellows with my own eyes unbuckle one of his stirrup-leathers, and cut about him in the crowd, with the iron part of it—communicating to the blows all the additional force that swinging it at the end of the leather could give them? Anything more sickening and disgusting, or anything that roused my indignation so much, I never beheld.

Dickens is particular, when traveling the country for elections or state-ment's speeches, to communicate the details of his arrangements. Lord John Russell speaks at Bristol, and Catherine is told how he is reported, and how the report is to

Divorce Suit Filed By Gloria Swanson

LOS ANGELES, May 14.—(UP)—Gloria Swanson, film actress, filed suit for divorce today against her fourth husband, Michael Farmer, alleging cruelty.

Miss Swanson charged the wealthy Irish sportsman quarreled with her sometimes throughout the night.

Farmer is father of her baby daughter, Michele Bridget.

Farmer's conduct, it was charged, made his wife extremely nervous and unable to perform properly her motion picture roles.

He was given to "fancied dislikes" for many of her friends and acquaintances, Miss Swanson said, and sometimes embarrassed and humiliated her by his public conduct.

The complaint said no community property exists and that Farmer will allow her to obtain the decree without contest. She asked custody of their daughter.

40 Persons Are Killed In Blast at Hongkong

HONG KONG, May 14.—(AP)—Forty persons were estimated killed today and 100 injured when the explosion of a huge gas tank at West Point, Victoria, laid waste a residential section. All of those killed and injured were Chinese—most of them women and children. Flames which followed the blast destroyed a tenement block of seven houses opposite the tank. The explosion shattered buildings in an adjoining block.

Keep on the SUNNY SIDE

HAVEN'T you noticed that your happiest hours occur on days when you feel your best?

Have more of these happy days. You and all your family. Guard health while you have it. Keep on the sunny side of life.

The greatest enemy of health is common constipation. It may cause loss of appetite and energy. Certainly it kills enthusiasm! Yet it can be banished by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to relieve common constipation. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much pleasanter to eat this delicious ready-to-eat cereal than to take patent medicines. Two table-spoons daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Cohan Play To Close Season For Emory University Group

"Broadway Jones" will close the Emory Players' seventh season Monday night. Here are (left to right) Edgar Neely as Jackson "Broadway" Jones; Virginia Dillon as Clara Spotswood, and Jack Tilford as Judge Spotswood. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

The performance of the Emory Players in "Broadway Jones," a four-act comedy by George M. Cohan Wednesday night, will bring that group's seventh successful season to a close. The play will be presented in the university auditorium at 8:15.

The story of the play is that of Broadway Jones, New York playboy, who goes broke, becomes engaged to a wealthy old widow, then inherits a million-dollar chewing gum factory. How his secretary keeps him from selling the factory to the gum trust is the basis for many clever lines and amusing climaxes.

An experienced cast headed by Edgar Neely, Lib Potter and Carter Myrick will present the most elaborate production that has been seen at Emory this year.

Chinese Bandits Ask $35,000 for Missionary

HANKOW, China, May 14.—(AP)—Bandits under the command of the dreaded General Ho Lung demanded $35,000 ransom today for the kidnapped American missionary, the Rev. Howard Smith, of Washington, Pa.

Mr. Smith was seized by renegades May 8 near Penghsien in Szechwan province. The ransom demand was communicated to the Christian Missionary Alliance headquarters here. Mission and United States consular authorities were considering means of obtaining the missionary's release, but gave no thought to the bandits' demand since the mission's policy is not to pay ransom for kidnapped members. Besides, attaches said, the mission has no funds for the purpose.

MRS. LENA S. HUNTLEY WILL BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Lena Swift Huntley, 76, widely known Atlanta pioneer, who died Sunday morning at her residence, 1450 Peachtree street, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the residence with Bishop H. J. Mikell and the Rev. W. W. Meminger officiating. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery. She had been ill for several years but her condition was not considered critical until a week before death.

Born in Atlanta in 1857 the daughter of the late John G. and Lena Burckhardt, Mrs. Huntley attended the public schools and was a member of the first graduating class of Girls' High school. Later she was instrumental in founding the Girls' High Alumnae Association, of which she was the first president.

Mrs. Huntley was a devout member of All Saints' Episcopal church and was a leading figure in the religious and educational growth of Atlanta. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Willis Jones, Mrs. Mitchell King and Mrs. Eugene Dickey, and several grandchildren and one brother, John G. Burckhardt.

Presents Resignation

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 14.—(AP)—As the result of a growing disagreement among parties forming a national bloc the government of Bulgaria, headed by Premier Nicholas Muschanoff, today presented its resignation to King Boris.

Conflicting claims from various parties had been pressed for the vacancy created Saturday by the resignation of M. Kostrukoff, minister of railways.

Government observers indicated that they expected parliament to be dissolved and new elections called, but newspapers predicted that Muschanoff would again be named premier. His government was formed September 7, 1932.

Federal Reserve Head Believed Deferring Resignation To Aid F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's desire to extend special loans to heavy industries is a major factor in Eugene Black's staying in Washington as governor of the federal reserve board.

Black's friends acknowledge he is anxious to return home to Georgia, where his old post as governor of the Atlanta Reserve bank has been held open. They expect him to take the first opportunity after the adjournment of congress to seek to leave the capital.

But Black's associates agree the Atlanta would defer his own desires to meet any requests of Mr. Roosevelt should the president ask his services longer.

Mrs. Roosevelt To Speak On Commercial Program

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is going on the air again on a commercial advertising program.

She told her press conference today of a change in the previous policy under which she refrained from such broadcasts.

She said none of the money earned by the new talks would go to her, but instead directly to "the Friends' Service Committee," Philadelphia.

It will be used for education, handicraft and health projects in mining districts.

She stipulated that she will say nothing to advertise the product on whose program she speaks. Instead, she is allowed her choice of general subjects.

CANADIAN CONSUL
ASKS FOR DETAILS
IN ATLANTIC KILLING

Canadian government officials have, through diplomatic channels, made a request of the city of Atlanta for facts surrounding the murder of Alexander Gordon, Canadian war veteran, in this city last December.

"It is understood that Gordon was picked up near a hospital in Atlanta," read the official request sent Governor Eugene Talmadge by K. J. M. White, British consul at Savannah. "Gordon was suffering from head wounds which could not have been self-inflicted, on the night of December 26-27. He died on December 31, having been unable to explain his injuries."

"I would be most grateful if you would be good enough to cause inquiry to be held into this matter in order to establish if the evidence collected as a result of Gordon's death has been utilized to the fullest extent in accordance with the law and the procedure of the courts of the state of Georgia."

BRITAIN UNDECIDED ON DEBTS COURSE

London Described as Ready To Accept 'Challenge' To Default.

LONDON, May 14.—(AP)—Great Britain's attitude on war debts remained uncertain tonight, but in some quarters there is a growing disposition, it was said in official circles, to accept what they described "America's challenge" to default.

In all quarters there was positive assurance, however, that the nation has not yet made up its mind what to do about a debt installment due in June. Whether to make a token payment was the vexing question.

Before deciding on a definite course Great Britain will play a waiting game, keeping a wary eye on Washington, it was indicated in the house of commons today by Sir John Simon, foreign secretary.

British statesmen, a Downing street informant told the Associated Press, are eagerly awaiting President Roosevelt's war debt message to congress. The president, it was said, has intimated to Great Britain and other debtors that he wants an expression of their views before completing the message. But Great Britain was represented as wanting to know first what the next American move will be.

FRENCH ARE WILLING TO DISCUSS PROBLEM

PARIS, May 14.—(UP)—The French government is willing to send representatives to Washington to reopen the war debts issue with President Roosevelt, it was learned tonight.

France would be willing to follow the lead of Great Britain either in meeting a Roosevelt debt's mission to Europe or sending individual missions to Washington in an effort to gain "a new deal" on this delicate issue.

Presumably, however, according to the United Press informant, the government would prefer awaiting indication of some such action by Britain.

Once London made the proposal for some such method of reopening the debt questions, Paris would be ready to fall in line forthwith, resulting in an entirely new series of debt conferences designed to wipe out the issue once and for all from the slate of international problems.

The French and British shortly will contact each other to sound out their respective positions.

3-WAY DISTRIBUTION OF $120,000 SOUGHT

Alderman I. Gloor Hailey, chairman of the benevolence and pensions committee of council, who obtained a cut of $120,000 for the year in city contributions to federal officials for relief purposes, will move this afternoon for a three-way distribution of the savings.

Hailey will propose that about $65,000 be set up to meet pension requirements, and that another $39,000 be provided to insure reconstruction of the Peters street viaduct. The pension funds are divided into two distinct funds—one for firemen and the other for general pension fund requirements.

The proposals will be laid before the meeting of the finance committee at its meeting, slated for 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Provision of the $39,000 for the viaduct improvement is to aid the state in extending Whitehall street from Gordon into Lee streets and thus providing a new outlet for travel.

MISS IVEY IS SLATED FOR WARDEN'S POST

Miss Elizabeth Ivey, for the last several years assistant to the late William H. Johnson, city warden, who died Saturday, is slated to be designated as his acting successor, it was said Monday.

Alderman I. Gloor Hailey, chairman of the benevolence and pensions committee and at least two other of the five members of the committee will support her.

There were several tentative bidders for the post, but all appeared to have been sidetracked. Mayor James L. Key also believes Miss Ivey would be a happy choice.

MARINETTE SHOW STAGED IN DAVISON'S

Edmund Wilkes, the puppeteer, is staging a marionette show in Davison's window this week portraying Elizabeth Arden's beauty preparations. The show is attracting a large audience.

Wilkes says that his art is a distinguished one, with great artists writing especially for marionette productions. Puppet shows flourished, he pointed out, back in the early days of Greece and Italy.

They are still popular in this country in spite of the films. The simplicity of the figures he uses and their set routine makes their accomplishment even more interesting.

FRANCE TO AVOID GERMAN STRIFE

Doumergue Bars Preventive War To Defeat Rearmament Move.

PARIS, May 14.—(AP)—Premier Gaston Doumergue tonight pledged that France would not enter a preventive war to keep Germany from rearming.

"Never will France take the initiative in aggression," said the 71-year-old head of the government in giving a radio account of his political true government. He did not mention Germany by name.

Speaking on the eve of parliament's reopening, the former president urged the people to bring pressure on their representatives to end political fights within France which might cause a new storm.

While France has decreased armaments, Doumergue said, "others have openly increased their armaments by subversive methods, in violation of peace treaties."

"Our desire and need for real security, far from diminishing, have really been augmented," the premier asserted.

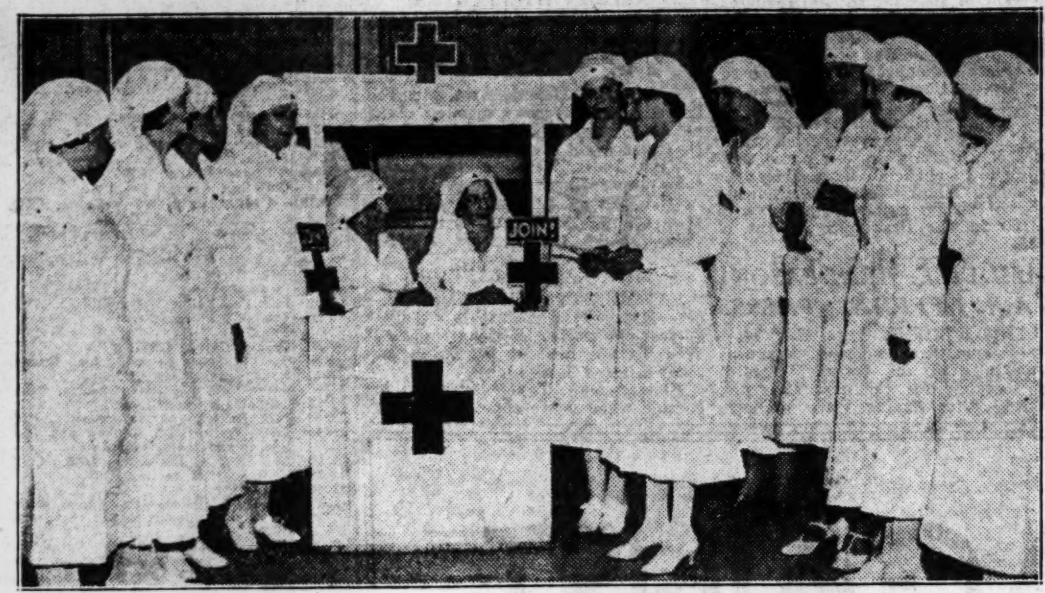

Skipping the question of war debts, Doumergue defined the French foreign policy as "a will for peace with everyone, with our hand loyally extended to everyone who wishes to accept it, without territorial ambition or other desires to satisfy."

"There is no hatred in our hearts against anyone, but a desire and ardent need for security."

France, he continued, "is reclaiming the hill slowly," but he warned that "the mind, often after it has momentarily ceased to blow, comes back as a tempest and causes immense damage."

Atlanta Red Cross Roll Call Smashing Past Records; 15,000 Members Expected

A group of Red Cross nurses getting instructions at headquarters before leaving to open booths over the city. Left to right, they are Mrs. G. E. Minniette, Miss Hazel Wells, Mrs. Veta B. Spencer, Mrs. Ruth Manning, Mrs. Sue B. Paille, Miss Mary D. Copeland, Miss Sally Cagle, Miss Nannie Bell Phillips, Mrs. Ester Parks, Mrs. J. L. Priest and Miss Will Nell Logan. Mrs. Julian Swain with the booklet, is giving instructions.

Smashing all previous records for Atlanta, the 1934 Red Cross roll call passed the 4,000 mark late Monday. "Atlanta is doing itself proud," said Julian Boehm, general chairman of the roll call. "We have every reason to feel that the 15,000 mark will be reached by the end of the week."

It was revealed at Red Cross headquarters that officials of the drive were counting heavily on the work of the woman's division under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Hazzard.

More than 600 women volunteers are actively at work seeking new members. These women are wearing the familiar Red Cross head-dress and carrying bags with the Red Cross emblem. They have erected booths in 12 different sections of the city.

Preliminary instructions to 200 members of the Metropolitan Area Red Cross Volunteer Workers group were given Monday night at a banquet held at Rich's. The dinner was

$35,300 SUBSCRIBED FOR CHURCH BUILDING

More than $35,300 of the needed $150,000 for completion of the building of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church already has been subscribed, church leaders announced Monday, as they prepared to emphasize the drive this week.

Committees raising the fund are to make reports Wednesday night and next Sunday to Fred W. Patterson, general chairman of the group. Harrison Jones, W. B. Williamson Jr., George Northen, B. M. Boykin and Mrs. H. P. Knight and Mrs. W. B. Williamson Jr. are heads of teams canvassing the church members.

WESLEY PARIS WINNER OF SPEAKING CONTEST

Wesley Paris, of Woodward Avenue Baptist church, won the better speaker's contest at Tabernacle Baptist church Monday night, and will represent Atlanta B. Y. P. U. association in the central western region meeting at Griffin, Sunday afternoon, May 27.

The subject was, "What It Means to Be a Christian." Eight speakers representing the eight B. Y. P. U. districts in Atlanta participated. Howard Gilbert, of Hapeville Baptist church, won second place; Miss Frances Lee, of West End Baptist church, won third place. Winners in the regional meet at Griffin will be the guests of the state B. Y. P. U. department at the annual encampment, Shouter College, Rome, during the week of June 9.

Hearing Date Is Set

For Ginners' Accord

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The farm administration announced today that a public hearing will be held in Washington May 18 on the tentatively approved marketing agreement for the cotton ginning industry to which some amendments have recently been proposed by ginners.

The proposed changes were suggested by ginners following meetings in Atlanta and Dallas recently.

Enactment of the bill to restrict cotton production was declared by some to have brought up new problems which should be made a part of the code.

FIRST LADY HOPES TO SEE GRANDCHILD DURING SUMMER

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt expects today to visit her grandchild, Ruth Chandler Roosevelt, daughter of Eliot, while the president goes voyaging this summer.

The child was born recently in Fort Worth.

She told her press conference today that she would meet her husband when he lands on the west coast, probably at Seattle, and would make the return train trip with him, visiting en route various federal projects in which he is interested.

Mrs. Roosevelt emphasized that summer vacation plans are unsettled; but as nearly as can be judged now, the president will sail from Hyde Park about the twenty-sixth of May after attending, if possible, the Harvard-Yale races on the twenty-second. Franklin Jr. is on the Harvard freshman crew squad.

The president's two sons, Franklin Jr. and John, will go with him on his trip to Puerto Rico and the Virgin islands, and through the Panama Canal to Hawaii, returning probably to Seattle.

Mrs. Roosevelt said her own plans in the interim were "very vague," but in all probability she would go to see the grandchild, if her parents had not brought her east by this time.

BROKERAGE CASHIER HELD IN SHORTAGE

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—A trusted employee of a Wall Street brokerage firm for 22 years, Sampson Wallace, 39, was arrested tonight on charges of grand larceny, after Police Captain Patrick McVeigh charged that shortages totaling $320,000 had been found in his accounts.

As a lad of 17, Wallace went to work with Hille & Stieglitz, stock firm, and eight years ago he became cashier. Since then, Captain McVeigh charges, the alleged thefts have ranged from $30 to $100 a day.

Never once until a week ago was suspicion directed toward the quiet, dignified cashier who did his work with dispatch and care. Tonight Wallace was in the Tomb, after having assisted his employers to make a complete audit of his books.

Captain McVeigh said Wallace has made a confession in writing and signed it.

2 TOUHY GANGSTERS GO ON TRIAL TODAY

ASHEVILLE, N. C., May 14.—(AP)—Two members of the notorious Chicago Touhy gang will go on trial in federal district court here tomorrow for the $105,000 mail truck holdup in Charlotte last November.

Ludwig (Dutch) Schmidt and Basil Banghart were brought here Sunday from Chicago, where Banghart is under a 99-year sentence for the John (Jack the Barber) Factor kidnapping. Schmidt was arrested there recently.

Both were said by Isaac Costner, who is under 30-year sentence for the robbery, to be taking a part in it, along with Charles (Ice) Connors, who was machine-gunned in Chicago, apparently by members of his own gang.

Mae Blalock, also indicted in the robbery, is an expectant mother and will not be tried now. She is Banghart's sweetheart.

Real 'Jag' Saves Baby, Permits Operation

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 14.—(UP)—Harold William Powers, 20 days old, stuck his thumb in his mouth and slept peacefully today, without even a hangover from the "jag" which saved his life.

The baby was taken to death last Friday when surgeons discovered a stomach obstruction that would have to be removed before he could retain food.

He was too young for an anesthetic, so whisky-soaked sugar was put in his mouth. When he was gloriously drunk the operation was performed and he didn't feel it.

U. S. PASSING CRISIS, CHURCHMEN ARE TOLD

Federal Jurist Calls for Recurrence to Fundamental Principles.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 14.—(AP)—Reading in the signs of the times the most serious menace that popular government the world over has faced in a century, a federal judge here tonight called for a "recurrence to fundamental principles."

The speaker, Judge John J. Parker, of the United States circuit court of appeals at Richmond, Va., however, was quick to tell the industrial conference of the Episcopal church that the "American government has not failed, and neither the economic depression through which we are passing, nor the coming of the machine age is any excuse for losing faith in the constitutional structure under which we have been nourished."

The subject of his address was "The federal constitution in a period of change."

"We are going through a crisis in the history of the world," he said. "Everywhere the ideals of the past are being assailed. In scholarship, in business, in morals—in every realm of human thought and human activity there is revolt against established standards. I am not one of those who thinks that it is an unmitigated evil. On the contrary, I believe we are witnessing the birth of a new civilization, a civilization of higher standards of righteousness and of greater opportunity for the expanding nature of man."

Irate Hubby Storms Wrong House In Search of Wife, Lands in Jail

Theories relating to poor direction are being considered by at least one Atlanta man Monday as he reflected upon the amount of a fine paid at police headquarters as a result of Saturday night efforts to land in jail.

He said his name was one of the Smiths, but in view of the record of his Saturday night transgression that may be doubted.

For some time he and his wife have lived apart. Prompted by some sort of stimulant, Saturday night he went to the house where he believed the estranged wife lived. The dwelling was in darkness.

Without much consideration he heaved a brick at the front door. He followed this attack by kicking the door with his feet, and then jammed his fist through a panel.

To complete the celebration he went to the center of the street and began a verbal review of his wife's history, including relatives.

Now the strange part of this entire transaction was that the house he selected was vacant, the wife lived next door to the one he had assaulted, and on top of that she wasn't in the neighborhood at the time, anyway.

The irate gentleman selected another house, after learning of his original mistake. Again he erred.

He appeared before this second residence and apparently was on the point of repeating his entire performance.

Trouble was here, however, the residence is occupied by City Detective James A. Hamilton, so 30 minutes later Smith was in a cell at police headquarters, his first perfect hit of the evening.

Don't waste a minute, try the Doctor's prescription called Cystex (pronounced Nias-tex). Formula in every package. Starts work in 15 minutes. Soothes and tones raw, irritated tissues. It is helping millions of sufferers and is guaranteed to fix you up to your satisfaction or money back on return of empty package. Cystex is only the at all druggists. (adv.)

PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSOCIATIONS
Your hard work will be rewarded through the Golden Rule Plan.

He received an audition at the Biltmore with Otto Klaber and Edward Ziegler, and the same day sang for Serrafin and Rosa Ponselle. The next day he sang for the audition committee at the city auditorium along with scores of other ambitious young-singers, and Mr. Kahn advised him to go to New York and sing for Gatti-Casazza. The New York audition brought him a contract with the "Met." He was a principal with the Metropolitan Opera Company for six consecutive years, but has not been with the company for the last two years.

Most of his time is taken at present in teaching concert work and broadcasting, dividing his time between New York city and Nashville, Tenn., his home town.

Mr. Macpherson does not believe that opera will ever be universally popular in America until opera companies are American institutions, without foreign domination.

"Today," he said, "even the minor Italian singers in companies are paid more than the leading American singers."

"And until Edna St. Vincent Millay, or some other equally clever writer, can give us English librettos for our operas, they will never be enjoyed by the majority.

"Americans would not think of going to see 'Rasputin' if the actors had spoken Russian in the talkies," he continued. "Why should they be expected to patronize operas sung in Italian or German?"

Mr. Macpherson began his vocal study at the age of 23, following a career in the insurance business, and two years later he was singing in the "Met," a phenomenal rise after he was "discovered" in a minstrel show in Nashville.

He is married and has two boys, 5 and 9. His favorite pastime is taking long walks in the country.

Eyes Reveal Your Real Personality

In no other way is personality—character, culture, nature—so plainly indicated as in the expression of the eyes. Hence, in choosing glasses it behooves everyone to select a style which will best retain the natural features and expression.

Here, that aspect is rated such great importance as to become a highly specialized service.

Physiognomy—the art of reading character and beauty in the lineaments of the face is scientifically applied to every fitting of eye-glasses.

Specialists render this unusual service here, at no additional cost.

"B.C." Relieves Periodical Pains In Three Minutes

It is so unnecessary to suffer month after month from inorganic pains, because "B. C." will bring soothing relief in three minutes. "B. C." is prepared by registered pharmacists, compounded on a different principle from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, used by many physicians, so blended and proportioned as to soothe in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of common colds, headaches and neuralgia, muscular aches and pains, reducing fever and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit-forming drugs. Kill the Cause Of Skin Trouble

This formula for skin diseases is astounding the most skeptical. It is Ringworm, Athlete's Foot, Eczema, Tetter, Itch and other parasitic skin troubles. The minute it touches the sore spot, you feel a soothing, cooling sensation; in a few days you marvel at how your skin has healed. If you suffer with skin diseases of any kind, get from any druggist a 60c box of Tetterine, and get relief or get your money back.—(adv.)

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding, protruding piles have learned the quick and lasting relief can be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts lifeless. To end Piles an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard was the first to discover the real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for hundreds of patients with a marvelous record of success and then decided every pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jacobs Drug Stores say "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe, clean way to get rid of your Pile misery or money back."—(adv.)

On the Air Today

FIRST LADY—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will speak over the WABC-Columbia network today during a program from 1 to 1:30 p. m., in connection with the presentation of the NRA label of the cotton garment code to the women of America. Mary Brian, featured film player, will be another speaker. She will lend an authentic historical note to the occasion for one of her ancestors, Nathaniel Green, maintained one of Eli Whitney's original cotton gins.

JOIN CHOLLY—The popular two-piano team of Fray and Braggiotti will join the Tuesday evening programs over the WGST-Columbia network featuring the society comment of Maury Paul, known to millions of newspaper readers as "Cholly Knickerbocker," and Freddy Martin and his orchestra. Today also marks the extension of the program's time for a quarter-hour to a full half-hour. On its new schedule, it will be heard each Tuesday from 7 to 7:30 p. m.

ORMANDY—Four old favorites of every concert audience will comprise the compositions to be heard during the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra broadcast over WGST and a nationwide Columbia network tonight from 7:30 to 8 o'clock. Eugene Ormandy will conduct. An orchestral arrangement of Rachmaninoff's famous prelude in C-sharp minor will open the broadcast, after which the orchestra will play the colorful "Anitra's Dance" from Grieg's "Peer Gynt" suite No. 2. Richard Wagner will be represented by the stirring "Ride of the Valkyries" from "Die Walkure," and the concluding number will be Tchaikovsky's 1812 overture.

TO ARCTIC—The departure of the United States coast guard cutter Northland from Seattle on her annual trip to northern waters will be marked by a coast-to-coast broadcast over the Columbia network and WGST from 1:30 to 1:45 o'clock. The broadcast will originate on board the cutter as she steams out of the harbor. The cutter makes the trip each year about this time to chart the movements of icebergs breaking off from the arctic ice pack and warn shipping of their courses.

As judges in criminal and civil court cases in Alaska, conduct medical examinations and inspect fisheries.

SEVENTH REGIMENT—Lieutenant Francis W. Sutherland, conductor of the famous Seventh Regiment band, will present a varied program of classical military selections during the concert to be heard from 2 to 2:30 o'clock today over the WGST-Columbia network. A feature of the program will be "Sweetheart," from bone solo by its composer, Al Pinard. Other selections will be dedication and benediction of the Poignards from Meyerbeer's opera, "Les Huguenots," Macbeth's intermezzo, "Forget-Me-Not," "Marsina," by Espinoza, excerpts from the Primi opera, "Rose Marie," and "The Gray Jackets," a march by Neyer.

CHILDREN'S EYES—Dr. Le Grand H. Hardy, director of eye service at the Fifth Avenue Hospital, New York, will be the speaker on the Academy of Medicine program to be broadcast over WGST and the Columbia chain today from 8:45 to 9 a. m. The subject of Dr. Hardy's talk will be "The Eyes of Your Child."

The Literary Digest Is Now Mailing To Voters Throughout The Nation

15 MILLION SECRET BALLOTS

In order that the real opinion of the American people, free from all political or industrial prejudice or pressure, may be known on this vital question which has aroused the greatest controversy of a generation.

Ballots Are Now Being Distributed Throughout the Entire State of Georgia

WATCH FOR YOUR BALLOT AND ANSWER "YES" OR "NO"

Business and industry of the Nation have been placed under N.R.A. codes subject to the President's order. Millions of unemployed have been given work. The "gold standard" has been suspended, all gold money taken by the government, and gold payment contracts voided at home and abroad. The gold value of the dollar has been reduced to 59.06 cents in the effort to raise prices.

Billions of dollars have been distributed for relief, for public improvements, and for public and private loans. The National debt has been increased to huge proportions, and taxes have gone up. Hours of labor have been shortened. Farmers and cotton growers have been paid hundreds of millions of dollars for plowing under growing crops or reducing production in order to raise prices. Bank deposits have been guaranteed. Soviet Russia has been recognized. New laws have given workers the right to organize or belong to labor unions as they please free from coercion—and these are only a few of the surprising, breathtaking things of this first Roosevelt year.

The United States Chamber of Commerce, through its member organizations, has studied the operations of the N.R.A. in more than 100 cities throughout the Nation, and reports "widely differing views concerning its results."

Industrialists, labor leaders, bankers, economists, Congressmen, professors, and radio commentators are broadcasting views that clash. Now with the absolute impartiality which is universally recognized as its unvarying policy, The Literary Digest gives the men and women voters of

ALL parties and all classes a chance to answer with the authority of a Nation-Wide Poll this outstanding question that affects our destiny. These famous Polls have always been accurate and their popular verdict is universally accepted. VOTE!

BAKERS WILL ELECT OFFICERS, TAKE CODE

Election of officers, code discussions and a banquet in the evening at the Biltmore hotel, will feature today's session of the Southern Bakers Association.

Principal speakers at the code discussion this morning will be William

A. Quinlan, secretary of the National Bakers' Council, and C. M. McMillan, secretary of the southern association.

A set-up for administering the code in the south was discussed Monday. There was a board of governors meeting, and Henry Stude, national authority in the industry, addressed the convention by long distance from Chicago.

Georgia Fields And Streams

By H. A. Carter.

BRIGHT MONDAYS.

Do you suffer from blue Mondays? Do you enjoy pleasant week-ends and upon going to bed Sunday night realize with a groan that the next day is Monday? I have the solution to your problem, but not many of you, I am afraid, will like it. Let all your friends bring to you on Monday morning the snakes and salamanders that they collect for you over the week-end.

Every Monday, it seems, I can count on a flood of specimens from half a dozen people who have become interested in herpetology and who take keen delight in catching specimens for me to identify. They go away with their new-found names for these interesting beasts, leaving the beasts in my hands for the future and infinitely more laborious routine of future study.

The first venomous snake of the season's collection was brought in by F. C. Boland, of Austell, who is providing me with many very interesting and valuable specimens. He presented me with a copperhead this time and also with three splendid specimens of the six-striped lizard. These specimens I will mount for permanent exhibits. He also contributed a striped water snake (known variously as queen-snake and moon-snake), and some salamanders of the red variety that I have praised so often before.

Mr. Boland has added a great many specimens to the collection this year. Soon I will have a representative series of specimens from Douglas county, thanks to him.

Then Fred Barkalow showed up with a set of specimens ranging from the red-backed salamander, the fourth record for the state, to a Florida wood rat, including in that scope one musk-turtle, two pine lizards, a small banded water snake, seven other salamanders, whose exact species I have not yet determined, but which look very much like the familiar dusky salamander, and one large adult and one very small juvenile cotton rat.

J. A. Bretz brought in a fine specimen of the rough-scaled green snake and Andy Estes was the contributor of a nice half-grown skink.

That makes a total of 24 specimens for the day. Who said blue Monday? The only thing blue about these Mondays is that they come only once a week. I believe I will write to my congressman and see if he cannot arrange to have them come a bit more often. I like my Mondays.

Godfrey Captured In $90,000 Swindle

B. W. Godfrey, one of the principals who was indicted by a federal grand jury here in connection with a wire-tapping scheme which cost Roy E. Martin, Columbus theater owner, $90,000, was arrested Monday in Albany, N. Y.

A copy of the indictment was sent to Albany and Godfrey will be returned here for trial. He was indicted for fraudulent use of the mails. W. Clyde Smith, another member of the gang, who was convicted, appealed and lost, forfeited a $25,000 bond. Ed O. Ellis, the third member, is serving his sentence in the federal prison here. Martin said the men told him Smith was a relay man with the Western Union, and could, by "tapping" the wires, get advance information on rates upon which Martin was permitted to bet.

Lewis Sharp Slated To Head Civitan Club

Lewis D. Sharp, secretary of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company, is slated to be elected president of the Atlanta Civitan Club at its meeting Tuesday, May 22, when officers of the organization for the coming year will be named.

Though Sharp is unopposed for president, three vice presidents and four directors will be chosen from the following: Russell Baker, Everett Brown, Vincent Cunningham, Charlie Holditch, Leslie Hubbard, W. J. Sargent, John M. Slaton, Cecil Stoddard, Charlie Walker, Charlie Wilkinson, W. H. Wynne Jr., and Goodloe Yancy. Members will vote on Bob Crenshaw and Jere Wells for secretary; Clark Harrison and Roy Wynne for treasurer; Will Beyer and Oby Brewer for sergeant-at-arms; Joe Rose and Joe Awtry for district trustee. A delegate to the convention will be chosen from Lee Edwards, Jim Keelin and W. W. Memminger.

SHOOTING OF YOUTH FOUND TO BE SUICIDE

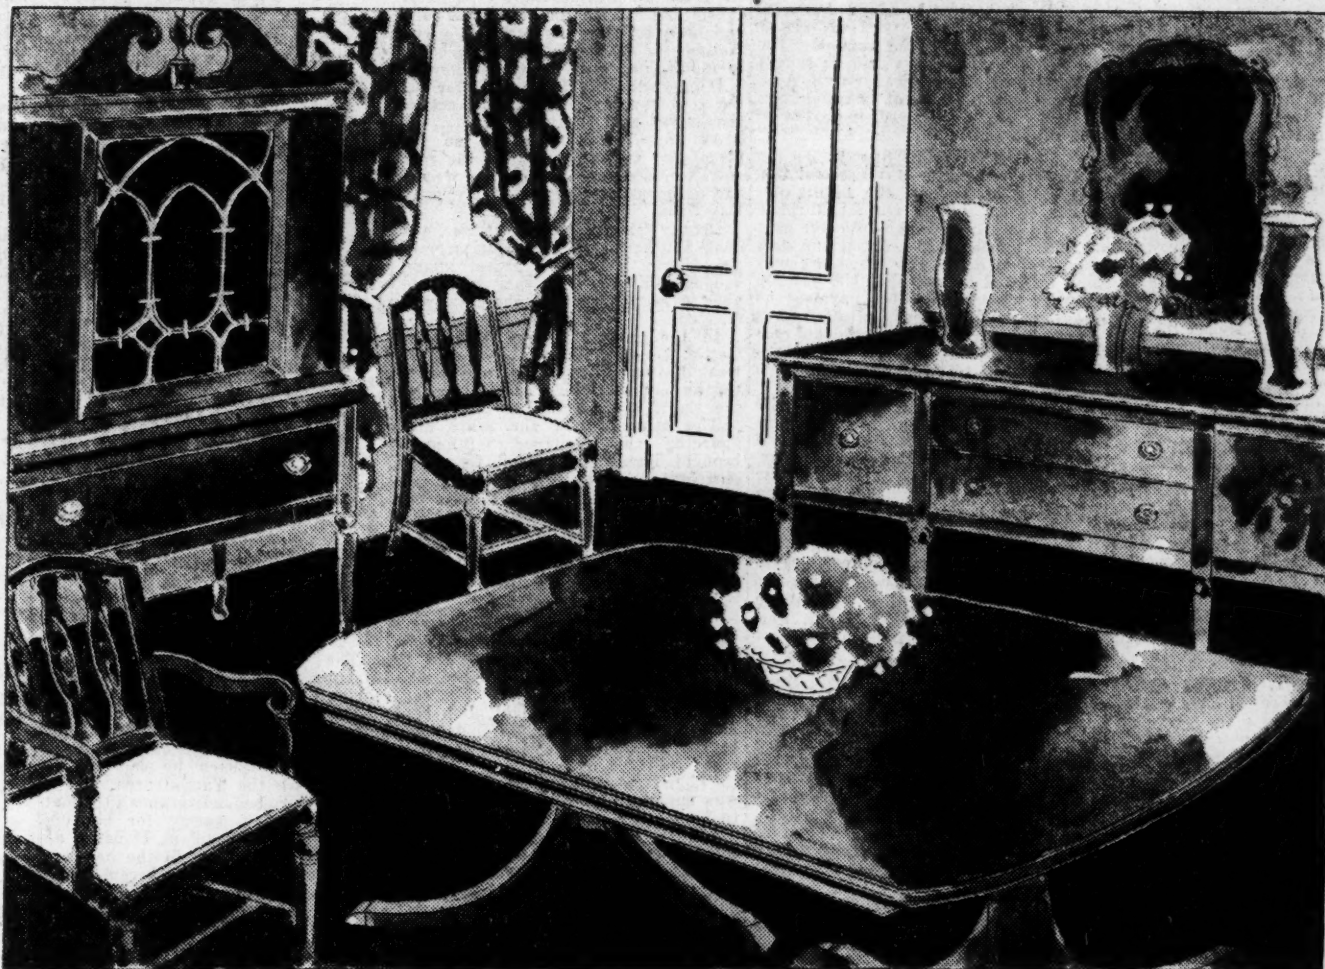

A coroner's jury Monday afternoon returned a verdict of suicide in the death Sunday of Ned L. Ingram, 18, at the Green Gables tourist camp on the Roosevelt highway, below College Park. Evidence showed the youth had quarreled with a girl with whom he had been "keeping company" and rushed into his room to fire the shot. County police who investigated the shooting said the youth had attended a dance at the Green Gables camp Saturday night and that a quarrel resulted when Ingram remonstrated with the girl for going with someone else. Funeral services for the young man will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of A. C. Hemperley & Sons in East Point, with the Rev. W. H. Sentell officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Little June Robles Seized On Tucson Street April 25

Few Clues Developed
During Child's Period of Absence To Lead To Arrest of Abductors.

TUCSON, Ariz., May 14.—(AP)—June Robles, 6, vanished while on her way home from school Wednesday afternoon, April 25. Her little cousin, Harry King, 6, who was walking behind her, said a little black automobile drove up to the curb beside the little girl and she entered it.

This phase of the case also was witnessed by Mrs. Harold D. Smith, who did not realize the significance of it until the alarm was spread. Mrs. Smith said she saw an old sedan moving slowly along the street and its driver, a tall, emaciated man wearing dark glasses, motioning to June to get into the machine. She said she drove past the old car so slowly that the driver looked up and stared intently at her, whereupon she sped up at the insistence of her little son by her side. The license plates on the old car were so badly bent, Mrs. Smith said, that she could not read the numbers.

$15,000 Ransom Demanded.
Two hours after the little girl vanished, a small boy, Rosalio Estrada, delivered to the girl's father, Fernando Robles, a roughly printed note demanding $15,000 and warning against bringing police into the case. Young Estrada said a man had given him 25 cents to deliver the note and had instructed him to bring an answer to a nearby parking lot.

When young Estrada went to the parking lot later the man had vanished. Ray Orcutt, operator of the lot, said a heavily tanned man in gray had stood about the place nervously for a while and then disappeared.

The cry of kidnapping brought swiftly into action the most formidable mantrap ever thrown together in Arizona, which grew to a state of readiness in a few hours more than 1,000 men were in the hunt, ready to shoot it out in the style of their ancestors facing outlaws of old.

Six-Guns Fashionable.
Six-guns became fashionable again in Tucson. Men went through the streets with cartridge belts about their waists and with revolvers hanging loose and ready in holsters. Machine guns, rifles, clubs and other weapons made up the armament and the city for a whole took on something of its pioneer atmosphere.

Tucson was combed almost inch by inch, but in vain. The man-hunters spread to mountain and desert near by.

On the early morning following the kidnapping, the man-hunters, who had family signified a desire to have the intense searching stopped, fearing that such determined activity might jeopardize the safety of the little girl. Still later it was learned the family had decided to attempt negotiations with the abductors through an unnamed intermediary, the man-hunting machine paused.

On a second trip the next day, the reputedly wealthy man said he sought advice from a seer near Santa Ana, Sonora, but details of what advice the seer Robles received, if any, were not disclosed.

Officials Halt Search.
On his return from the second trip the night of May 1, the family announced that at its request authorities had been withdrawn from the case to allow unhampered negotiations with the abductors. This announcement was followed by one that the $15,000 ransom was "ready" for payment as soon as the kidnappers indicated they were ready to deal and could guarantee, by means of answers to certain questions put to June, that they were actually her abductors.

Five days after the family's public appeal to the abductors to come forth and negotiate without fear of official intervention, authorities began to express doubt that the vigil would bear fruit. However, they made it known they would continue to stay out of the case as long as possible.

Another climax came when Mrs. Bernabe Robles, the child's grandmother, said in an interview that the kidnappers had threatened death to the child and her father, Fernando Robles, if the ransom were not paid.

Two Forays Into Mexico.
May 7 heavily-armed American officers suddenly sped across the border southward from Nogales, Ariz., presumably on a hunt for the abductors. They returned empty-handed. At the same time, however, two Arizona highway patrolmen headed quickly for Cananea, some distance from Nogales, obtained the aid of Mexican police and searched the copper mining town on a tip that the abductors had left the child there.

The next day it developed that a man had been taken into custody in Tucson several days previously and had implicated himself, along with a Mexican couple and an American man, as the abductors. He furnished officers with the alleged secret plans of the kidnappers and on that basis a widespread hunt was carried on in the vicinity of Cananea for them but without avail.

Finally the family made known that a second note had been received and the father, Fernando Robles, disclosed he had been able to raise only $10,000 as ransom. Again officers agreed to withdraw from the case as the family requested another "truce" and made plans to broadcast another appeal to the abductors. The father made known that the donors of the ransom had specified that payment be made only when June was returned safely.

On that basis the case stood for several days. The father continued his efforts to meet and deal with the snatches. Hope was waning once again when the news came that the girl was alive.

ARKANSAS MERCHANT KILLED AS PLANE FALLS
HEBER SPRINGS, Ark., May 14.—(AP)—Paul Casey, 33, local merchant, crashed to his death in his three-passenger, single-engine monoplane shortly after taking off from Heber Springs airport late yesterday. Cause of the accident has not been determined.

GETTLE IS FREED BY POLICE IN RAID KIDNAPED CHILD IS FOUND IN PIT

Gettle's lips. The officers detained him briefly to seek identification of Kirk and the women. Officers expressed belief Kirk had conducted telephone negotiations with Ernest E. Noon, the family's intermediary. Police said all of the telephone calls had been made in Beverly Hills and Hollywood, many of them from within a few blocks of the Gettle home.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Breaster led the rescue party to the house where Gettle was held.

As the officers moved in on the place, two men fled through the rear entrance, dodging through the wreckage of homes left by the New Year's Day flood.

Deputy Sheriff Ernest Sichter and Jack Southard, special investigator of the district attorney's office, apprehended Williams, but they were unable to keep pace with the man who escaped.

Officers described him as a man of between 35 and 40 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall and of dark complexion. He was bareheaded.

Kept Trussed Up.
"I was not mistreated in any way," Deputy Sheriff R. S. Rowe, who rode beside Gettle from La Crescenta to Los Angeles, quoted the kidnapped man as saying.

"They fed me all right, but kept me trussed up. They blindfolded and gagged me and removed the gag only when they wanted to talk to me."

"I had no idea where I was. I was surprised to find I was so close to home."

"Then they kidnapped me they blindfolded me and drove me to a house. I was under the impression they had taken me out somewhere near Riverside (35 miles east of here)."
Rowe said Gettle told him his right side was injured when the two gunmen who kidnapped him pushed him from the seven-and-a-half-foot wall at his estate in getting him outside to their car. He leaned on two officers with whom he walked arm in arm.

and sucked an orange.
"Do you know me, honey?" asked Houston.

She gazed at him squarely.
"No," she said, and made no move to aid him in releasing her.

Uncle Arrives.
"Do you know 'Lechi'?" asked Houston, using June's own nickname for her uncle Carlos, who then was approaching hurriedly.

"Oh, yes," she cried, and scrambled to get free.

A key was found lying on a piece of tin on the desert near the prison hole, as the letter and map from Chicago followed by the officers had indicated there would be. Houston, unable to get quickly inside the tangle of heavy material covering the hole, tossed the key in.

June seized it, unlocked the padlock which held the chains about her ankles, and pulled herself up until she could be reached and lifted out. She was three feet under the surface.

Mrs. Helen Robles, June's mother, nearly swooned when the child was placed in her arms. She kissed her hungrily and then wept uncontrollably.

Asked for a description of the persons who put her in the hole, June said they were two men who called each other "Bill" and "Will." One of them wore gloves, she said. Coming to her desert prison occasionally to bring food and water.

Inside the hole was a jug of water, a loaf of fairly fresh bread and a few wilted oranges and vegetables.

Letter Kept Secret.
The letter reaching Governor Moore's office at Phoenix was held in strict confidence while Houston and the uncle investigated, and no public mention of it was made until June had been found. Officers said it evidently was written by someone familiar with the Tucson area.

June took her deliverance in a matter-of-fact way, except for her cry, "I want my mama," as Houston approached her. Once in the hands of someone she knew, she became calm. She asked when she could see her mother and inquired about her report card.

she would recover from her grueling experience.

Mrs. Helen Robles, June's mother, who has been prostrated by grief and shock, nearly swooned when the child was placed in her arms. She kissed her hungrily and broke into uncontrollable weeping.

Investigators expressed belief the little girl had been confined in the stuffy, cave-like cell, under the blazing Arizona desert sun, for nearly all of the 19 days she had been missing.

June accepted her return home quite calmly and was able to answer some questions.

Asked for a description of two men she said had put her in the hole and had visited her there with water and food, she said they called each other "Bill" and "Will," and that one of them wore gloves.

Hundreds of persons had gathered in front of the home of Bernabe Robles within a few minutes after it had become known little June had been returned there.

The receipt from Chicago of the information that more than 40,000 votes were located was a puzzling circumstance.

Investigators indicated they believed the kidnappers had become frightened and had given up hope of getting the ransom without being captured.

FOUR-CORNERED RACE FOR JERSEY GOVERNOR
NEWARK, N. J., May 14.—(AP)—With their interest centered on the four-cornered race for the republican gubernatorial nomination, New Jersey voters will choose tomorrow their candidates for a long list of federal, state and county positions.

The campaigns of all contestants closed tonight, with each of the four aspirants for the republican nomination for governor freely predicting his own triumph and with political observers counting on them to supply an exceedingly close race.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Harold G. Hoffman said he wasn't "worried at all" and his campaign manager stated he could carry 19 of the 21 counties and lead by 15,000 votes. State Senator Emerson Richards asserted he expected a plurality of 40,000. State Senator Joseph G. Wolber and former Judge Robert Carey made no estimates, but each expressed confidence he would win.

Outside of that contest, watched by republican and democratic alike, interest tonight centered in various local fights for leadership and in the vote of James G. Blauvelt, foe of the utilities companies, will poll in his battle to elect the governor of the state of New Jersey.

crat, Alabama, though it finally went without a record vote. Subsequently a motion to reconsider the vote by which it was adopted, entered by the opposition, failed.

Black said he wanted to "take congressmen and senators out of the class of glorified messengers" into which they had thrown themselves to get votes.

Investigation of ocean and air mail contracts, Black said, had disclosed the "continued and insistent pressure" had been brought by members of congress for contracts that should never have been given.

Leading the opposition, Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, said the amendment would prevent members of congress from introducing and making appointments for their constituents at the RFC, and would require all applicants for loans to hire lawyers.

"I don't see any need for it," Barkley said. "It casts a suspicion on every member of congress." "I don't need any statutory limitations on my sense of propriety," Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, said, joining in the opposition. He added the amendment would make it a violation of law for a member of congress merely to attest to the character of a constituent.

Gettles Abduction Ended Midnight Swimming Party

It's Not a Heist—It's a
Snatch,' Said Kidnapers
After Bold Holdup of Broker and Guests.

LOS ANGELES, May 14.—(AP)—William F. Gettle, 46, southern California multi-millionaire and retired broker, was seized by kidnapers who interrupted a midnight swimming party at his sumptuous estate at suburban Arcadia.

It was a warm night when the millionaire and his friends finished the dip in the new swimming pool on the new country estate at Arcadia. 20 miles east of Los Angeles, a beautiful foothill region of the Sierra Madres.

The three women went into the attractive South home, while Gettle, a tall, dark man, wearing a white tuxedo, donned light clothing with his two companions, James P. Wolf and Albert Hitchin, and went into the recreation hall for a round of drinks to terminate the day and night celebration of the completion of the new swimming pool and recreation hall of his country estate.

One of the women called Hitchin to the residence.

Then a soft strange voice at the entrance of the recreation hall said: "Put on your gun, Gettle. It's a holdup," was the thought of Wolf as they trekked toward the east end of the estate, and he chuckled at his wallet containing $200 into a bush.

Then one of the men whispered: "This is not a heist—it's a snatch." Gettle, who was armed with a .38 Smith & Wesson revolver, drew it.

"I'll give you all the money I have on me, and go into the house for more if you won't take away," Gettle said, his voice hoarse.

"That won't be enough. This is a kidnapping, fellow."

They took off the neckties of the $2,817,000 APPROVED FOR U. OF GEORGIA additions and improvements. The bonds would begin maturing in 1936 and all completely retired in 1963.

If the regents accept the government proposal and it is approved by the courts, the federal government will take a first and prior lien on all the income of the system's units, except that which is directly appropriated by the state and educational and endowment funds, as security. The regents would go into general athletics, athletic fees and other revenue. Athens with $800,400 would get the largest part of the fund, with Atlanta $224,400 and Georgia Tech $122,000. The University System Evening School would get $122,000 and the latter a loan of $276,000 and a grant of $67,800.

The $2,817,000 per cent grant is a gift made available on condition that contractors employed by the regents limit working hours of employees to 30 a week, pay reasonable wages and do not employ convict labor or materials made by convict labor.

A great portion of the sums received by the university and by Georgia Tech would go into general athletics, near the campus of each institution. In order to provide funds for these buildings the regents will pledge the income of the athletic associations of each institution. In this connection it was brought out that the income of the athletic association of both colleges increased tremendously last year, increases which will, if continued, more than care for the bonds for the gymnasiums. The 1933 athletic fund income of the University of Georgia was $116,438 as compared with an income of $56,315 in 1932. The Tech athletic association income in 1933 was $155,005, while in 1932 it was $137,875.

Fund Division Planned.
The loan and grant and the student and athletic fees of the various units for 1933-34 are:

West Georgia Teachers' College, Carrollton, loan $54,000; grant $18,300. For the construction of two faculty duplexes, and the remodeling of the dining hall. Student fees 1933, $10,988.

North Georgia College, Dahlonega, loan $78,000; grant $23,800. For the construction of one faculty duplex, a girls' dormitory and a dining hall. Student fees 1933, $9,997.

Georgia Southern College, Statesboro, loan $45,000; grant $15,000. For the construction of a girls' dormitory. Student fees 1933, $8,283.

Duplexes at Tifton. Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College, Tifton, loan $79,000; grant $23,800. For the construction of two faculty duplexes, a girls' dormitory and a dining hall. Student fees 1933, $7,820.

South Georgia State College, Douglas, loan $31,000; grant $9,000. For the construction of an auditorium, gymnasium. Student fees 1933, $4,563.

two victims and bound their hands. Then one of the gunmen deftly unwound rolls of surgical adhesive tape, an inch wide, sealed the mouths of the men and made hobbles around their ankles.

Gettle was moved up a stepladder against a seven-foot stone wall and tumbled down the outside. His groan was met with a curt remark:

"Don't be so soft."

Wolf then was taped to an elm tree. The gunmen soon were over the wall, and Wolf heard a car drive away.

"In some 30 minutes Wolf kicked off his tennis shoes, succeeded in loosening himself from the tree, and reached the house to spread the alarm. Authorities quickly sized up the case as a well organized plan.

Mrs. Gettle, an invalid from a recent attack of pneumonia, was prostrated.

Ernest E. Noon, Beverly Hills attorney, announced the following morning he had been named by the family to act as intermediary with the kidnappers.

Friday morning Noon received a telephone call demanding $75,000 ransom. He said the party was cut off before he could learn of directions for payment.

A letter came to the Arcadia country estate addressed to Mrs. Gettle. It was signed "Samuel Bernard." Thursday evening, demanding a ransom of $40,000.

Noon announced publicly he was ready to pay any reasonable ransom requested.

Federal, state, county and municipal police called off the manhunt at Noon's request to permit negotiations.

This was the first kidnapping affecting the Hollywood and Beverly Hills coterie of distinguished and wealthy residents.

Mrs. Gettle issued a statement urging the kidnappers to contact the family attorney.

Noon made a series of mysterious trips Thursday from his office. On Friday he reported he had received a telephone call placing the ransom demand at $75,000. Several other telephone calls were subsequently received, but Noon later revealed, some of which he believed actually were from the kidnappers while others obviously were from cranks.

In the meantime, peace officers chafed at the necessity for remaining virtually inactive to insure the safe return of the victim.

Officers, however, took into custody several persons but released them all after questioning.

Sunday, however, as a preliminary to a manhunt by 5,000 officers scheduled to be started at midnight, the deadline fixed by agreement between peace officers and Noon for negotiations actually to begin, hundreds of police cars, patrolling a systematic clean-up of known underworld haunts in Los Angeles and vicinity.

As the result of pleas made by Mrs. Gettle, the deadline was officially announced later in the day as having been extended to Monday noon to allow additional time for ransom negotiations.

State today, following a fruitless effort to trap the kidnappers early this morning, two messages were received by Noon, warning him that "we" were ready to "light for the money." He was told that a systematic clean-up of known underworld haunts in Los Angeles and vicinity.

Blayne Matthews, chief of the district attorney's staff of investigators, who was present in the room, drew a pistol from his pocket, unwittingly ran into a constable and burglars early today, while endeavoring to make contact with the kidnappers.

Fearing a hi-jacking, Matthews sped to a police station and scores of police cars, patrolling a systematic clean-up of the area, roared to the scene of the shooting, but found nothing. A few hours later came the announcement Gettle was safe.

3 COUNTRIES FORM TRADE ALLIANCE

Austria, Hungary and Italy Agree To Buy Each Other's Products.

ROME, May 14.—(AP)—Austria, Hungary and Italy tonight formed a trade alliance by signing agreements to buy each other's products, and to accord each other numerous commercial preferences.

Signing of the accord was announced by an official communiqué, and general outlines of the agreement were revealed.

The agreements ratified tonight are expected to wipe out Hungary's wheat surplus. Italy will take 1,000,000 quintals (3,740,000 bushels) and has an option on another 1,000,000 quintals. Italy will make the purchase through government-controlled associations and it reserves the right to export what it does not need, possibly in the form of flour.

Austria agrees to take 2,200,000 quintals of Hungarian wheat. In exchange, sale of Austrian-manufactured products in Hungary will be facilitated.

Italy will gain, in addition to an extended market for her products, notable advantages for the ports of Trieste and Fiume. Austria and Hungary agree to lower tariffs 10 per cent on products of any nation passing through these ports. It is expected that this arrangement will lure trade away from northern European ports, notably Hamburg.

The communiqué adds that the three nations agree to improve existing bilateral trade agreements known as "semmering accords."

Woman Found Slain In Auto Rumble Seat

MONTREAL, May 14.—(AP)—A mystery slaying confronted Montreal police following the finding late today of the body of Graciele Viens, 28, hidden in the rumble seat of an abandoned roadster.

She had been shot three times through the head and her clothing was soaked with blood.

Detectives, through the license plates, traced ownership of the car to Joseph Alistro, who was taken to headquarters for questioning. Alistro told authorities he had loaned the automobile to a friend.

The woman apparently had been dead for 20 or more hours when her body was found, doubled up on the floor of the closed rumble seat. Her clothing was badly torn.

COURT REJECTS UNIQUE APPEAL OF DOOMED NEGRO

Following failure late Monday night of attorneys to obtain an injunction based on a unique plea, the only hope for life for Emmett Gibson, convicted negro slayer of Harry McGee, aged Duluth roadster operator, lies in a grant of executive clemency by Governor Talmadge.

Gibson is scheduled to die in the electric chair at Milledgeville Monday 10 o'clock this morning and 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Frank Bowers and James R. Venable, attorneys for Gibson, had a hearing before Governor Talmadge Monday seeking commutation of the death sentence but the chief executive withheld his answer until today.

The lawyers late Monday night were denied an injunction by Judge James B. Park Jr., in Greensboro, which sought to prevent the superintendent and warden of the state prison from electrocuting Gibson today on the grounds that the negro was taken to Milledgeville by deputies while an act of 1924 by the legislature specified convicted men should be taken to the chair by the sheriff.

The lawyers said it was the first injunction of its kind ever sought in Georgia.

Judge Park, whom Bowers and Venable accused from his bed to hold the hearing, ruled that the sheriff had the right to designate anyone to act in his place officially.

Gibson shot and killed Harry McGee in the early part of 1933 and was last sentenced to death April 27, 1934, by Judge E. E. Pomeroy after his case had been taken to the supreme court of Georgia.

Letters of Dickens To His Wife

Charles Dickens at 18, after a miniature by Dickens' aunt. 'This is the earliest Dickens portrait.'

be taken to London in quickest time. From the George and Pelican at Newbury, where Dickens breaks the journey to Bristol, he sends a note which hints how things were done in days before the telegraph grew commonplace.

The Times are before us and have completed their arrangements, but if we continue to be as successful in laying the horses we require between this place and Bristol, as we have been on that part of the road to town which we have already traversed, we are in confident expectation of beating them by two hours at least. We share the expense with The Morning Herald, and are living and traveling with two gentlemen from that paper.

In the intervals of this busy life Dickens was looking out for a house, buying a few of the thousand and one things a house needs, and meeting with such disappointments as most men have encountered on the road to matrimony.

FOUND HOUSE RENT HIGH. I strolled about Pentonville thinking the air did my head good, and looked at one or two houses in the new streets. They are extremely dear, the cheapest I looked at being fifty-five pounds a year with taxes. Their situation for business is undeniable, certainly, and the houses themselves are very pretty, but this is too much.

As your Mama has not seen the sideboard, and as there are a great number of new purchases which even YOU have not seen (I think the best way will be, for you, and she, and Mary, to spend the day here (Furnival's Inn) on Saturday. I will ask Mother to come to tea; the purchases can be completed, and you can all get home by the last bus. Let me know what you think.

I have bought today, a pair of quart Decanters, and a pair of prints, a chrysanthemum, three brown dittos with plated tops, for beer and hot water, a pair of Lustres, and two MAGNIFICENT china Jars—all, I flatter myself, slight bargains.

Meanwhile Dickens was not only lonely but was experiencing the truth that even young bachelors are not exempt from worry. There is some unexplained trouble with a butcher's boy.

The Butcher wrote me last night to say that his boy was going to take out a warrant against me for an assault. I wrote word back that the sooner he did it, the better, and that I had instructed my clerk to take in no more insolent attempts to extort money. You shall see this precious correspondence too, tomorrow.

Had Dickens a clerk? Or was the existence of a clerk assumed for the purpose of impressing the butcher? More probably the name was conferred upon a male servant shared with other occupants of Furnival's Inn. It does not matter so much as the identity of the butcher's boy. Can it be he who is mentioned with tantalizing brevity in another letter about this time?

I am very glad to hear that your Mama is pleased with the report of the kitchen. I hope SHE is not overcome at my cruelty in being vexed with the Tomfoolery of the Sunday-School Paragon.

Again, what kitchen? The sentence suggests that a house had been taken, but evidence to that effect is lacking and, indeed, unlikely. Full as they are of little details, the letters present plenty of such riddles. No, there is small indication of a house, but by this time Dickens was getting launched on his literary career.

I have had a visit from the Publisher this morning, and the story cannot be any longer delayed—it must be done to-morrow. As there are more important considerations than the mere payment for the story, involved too, I

COMPANION HELD IN MURDER OF GIRL

40-Year-Old Millard Hickman Denies Killing Louise Jeppesen, 23.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—(AP)—Held on a murder charge, Millard Hickman, 40-year-old steamship company engineer who was sued for divorce because he "had too many women," today denied he had slain Miss Louise Jeppesen, 23, of Ogden, Utah, whose battered body was found in Golden Gate park yesterday. Police said she had been attacked, then strangled.

Captain of Inspectors Charles Dulea quoted Hickman as admitting he and the pretty, red-headed girl quarreled after a drinking party in his apartment, a short time before her body was found. Lingerie which police said belonged to the dead girl was found in Hickman's automobile. A bruise on Hickman's leg, and a deep scratch on his hand, was attributed by him to a scuffle with Miss Jeppesen in his apartment.

Municipal Judge Frank Dunn denied bail and ordered Hickman held for a preliminary hearing May 22.

"The body of Louise Jeppesen was found strangled," Police Inspector George Engler testified. "The last man she was with, an hour before her death, was the defendant." "I don't care what you say," Hickman was quoted by officers as declaring. "If they check my story, they'll find I'm innocent. I don't know anything about stepping in my car, or any of that other stuff. I feel pretty good."

Police said Hickman's car was covered with a red dust similar to that in the park where the body was found.

Hickman is the father of two children.

He didn't do it," Hickman was quoted by Peter Mullins, assistant district attorney as declaring. "She 'passed out' and I laid her on the bed. I lay down alongside of her and took off my shoes to make her more comfortable. She resented this and struggled and we had quite an argument."

"But finally she left the hotel. I did not leave my room at all," Hickman estimated the time at which the girl left his apartment at 3 a. m. Her body was found about 4:30 a. m. by J. C. Gentry, 62, employee of a riding stable, as he was walking through a pedestrian tunnel.

Gentry immediately notified police. Officers said the girl's body indicated she had been slain only a short time before. The shrubbery near the tunnel was torn up, indicating Miss Jeppesen had fought with her assailant.

Mullins announced he had found hotel employee witnesses who declared they had seen Hickman accompany Miss Jeppesen to the elevator.

Police also quoted Emil Heitzman, night attendant in the garage where Hickman keeps his automobile, as saying he was "almost sure" he saw the machine leave the garage shortly before 3 a. m. Sunday.

Hickman's car was in the garage at 2:45 a. m. Carl Johnson, who works with Heitzman, told officers. Neither man saw the car return to the garage, they told police, who seized it and began a search for fingerprints.

must exercise a little self denial, and set to work.

They (Chapman and Hall) have made me an offer of FOURTEEN POUNDS A MONTH to write and edit a new publication they contemplate, entirely by myself; to be published monthly and each number to contain four wood cuts. I am to make my estimate and calculation, and to give them a decisive answer on Friday morning. The work will be no joke, but the emolument is too tempting to resist.

"PICKWICK" IS STARTED. The monthly publication was "Pickwick," and all the world has read now, after hanging fire for the first four numbers, it was carried to astounding success in the fifth by the appearance of Sam Weller. Dickens must have started in earnest on the work which was to be "no joke," for he soon writes:

I have at this moment got Pickwick, and his friends, on the Rochester coach, and they are going on swimmingly, in company with a very different character from any I have yet described, who I flatter myself will make a decided hit. I want to get them from the Ball to their inn before I go to bed—and I think that will take me until one or two o'clock, AT THE EARLIEST.

The book says that the ball was at the inn; Dickens may have changed his mind. Shortly before he has been taking "a most powerful medicine in its effects upon the system (hydrocyanic acid being the principal ingredient)," and adds:

You will be happy to hear, my dearest, that Cruikshank (the artist) called this morning with PROOFS of four plates, and that Fred is to fetch from his house to-night proofs of four more—eight in all. He is now on the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth. So that I hope to-morrow week will see the Book at the Binder's.

The book was "Sketches by Boz." While engaged on that work Dickens had described his method of writing, and the description bears at least on the zest he threw into "Pickwick."

I have frequently told you that my composition is peculiar; I never can write with effect—especially in the serious way—until I have got my steam up, or in other words until I have become so excited with my subject that I cannot leave off.

If it be objected that "Pickwick" is not "in the serious way," the objector may be referred to Dickens' own confession that it would be "no joke." Both phrases are employed no doubt in the Pickwickian sense. At the time the young humorist was storing his mind with diverse scenes of life.

I have been to-day over Newgate and the House of Correction, and have lots of anecdotes to tell you of both places when I see you to-morrow—some of them rather amusing; at least to me, for I was intensely interested in everything I saw.

The first number of the "Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club," edited by Boz, was published at one shilling on March 31, 1836. April 2 Charles Dickens married Catherine Hogarth at St. Luke's church, Chelsea, which then had for its rector the Rev. Charles Kingsley, father of a more famous son.

12,000 ARE REGISTERED FOR ATLANTA PRIMARY

With Books Open Until July 28, Total of 30,000 Is Predicted.

With municipal registration books slated to close July 28, Atlanta Monday had more than half a normal registration list with approximately 12,000 names, it was estimated by J. Henson Tatum, city registrar.

Indications were that the 30,000 mark will be reached this year, and some optimists predicted that 35,000 names would be on the completed list. There are several influences responsible for the interest this year.

A mayor is to be nominated, and though thus far Roy LeCraw, insurance executive, is the only one actively in the field, there are prospects of at least two additional strong entries, among whom will be James I. Key, incumbent.

Special interests are registering their forces for the purpose of obtaining executive friendly to legislation sponsored by them. A "stop key" bloc is included in the list.

On the other hand, many citizens are determined that steps must be taken to protect the credit of the city and to continue the economical policy of the present administration in order to avert financial disaster for the municipality.

Another strong incentive to registration is the fact that payment of poll taxes is the only requisite for registration under a constitutional amendment, and many heretofore barred because they could not pay taxes are taking advantage of the opportunity thus offered.

The only time in recent history of Atlanta that the registration reached more than 30,000 was during the futile effort to recall Key. At that time the total was nearly 35,000 and about 30,000 actually voted.

Burglars Try Again, Crack Safe for $200

Failure by burglars six weeks ago to open the safe at the office of the Automobile Piston Company, 402 Courtland street, N. E., was followed by a successful robbery of the safe Sunday night, the burglars making away with approximately $200 in cash, it was reported Monday.

W. J. Millam, manager of the Millam Auto Body Company, 83 Auburn avenue, reported that burglars had ransacked the safe in his office, but that nothing of value was missed.

Merchandise valued at more than $100 was taken as loot by burglars from the McClure Pharmacy, 1765 Gordon street, S. W., during Sunday night. A similar burglary occurred at the Piedmont Soda Company, 170 Auburn avenue. A small quantity of general merchandise was taken from this building.

The restaurant operated by Mrs. Hugh Webb, 445 Luckie street, N. W., also was burglarized, two hams, tobacco and other merchandise being taken.

SILVER BLOC, F.D.R. TO DISCUSS PLANS

Thomas Would Allow June War Debt Payment To Be Made in Metal.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The senate silver bloc today looked to another conference with President Roosevelt to bring agreement on legislation to improve the economic status of the metal.

Before the week expires they planned to take to the chief executive the tentative program worked out with Secretary Morgenthau calling for nationalization of silver and permissive authority to make huge purchases of silver abroad.

Meanwhile Senator Thomas, democrat, Oklahoma, persistent champion of seeking to add a point to the plan under which June war debt payments could be made in silver.

This was done a year ago under legislation of which Thomas also was the author and which has since expired. The metal was received at a value of 50 cents an ounce, in comparison with the then market price of about 35 cents.

Thomas' idea is to apply the same plan to the coming payments for the purpose of increasing the nation's store of monetary silver and of easing the disturbed and always controversial war debt situation.

PLANS TAKE SHAPE FOR DROUTH AID

Delegation of House Members Named to Help in Working Out Relief.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(P)—President Roosevelt mapped out drouth relief plans in a conference late today with his aids who assured him there was no danger of a famine in the area.

Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, was given authority to purchase for cash a substantial number of cattle in the drouth region. The relief administration will can the beef for use in general relief work.

Chester C. Davis, the farm administrator, told the president he would relax the restrictions on farmers under contract so as to permit production of summer forage crops.

Relief funds were ordered available for deepening wells and sinking new wells.

The White House announced the railroads would be asked to reduce freight rates to permit moving out cattle and moving in feed.

Direct relief will be given to needy farmers and their families and stock feed will be supplied until new pastures are available.

"The president indicated," said a White House statement, "that in his judgment it will not be necessary to ask congress for additional powers or grants to enable the emergency agencies to cope with the situation."

Meanwhile, a group of house members from the stricken states met and selected a delegation to aid governmental departments in working out immediate relief plans. Some of them

Enslaved to Tend Stills, Youth Tells Officers

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 14.—(UP)—The story of an Arkansas farm youth that he and his brother had been kidnaped and worked for months as slaves by a gang of moonshiners in the Ouchita hill country brought three arrests today.

Extra Fox appeared at the village of Greasy Cove to tell the weird tale of bonds. Panhandle district spoke of seeking direct appropriations for the emergency.

Fox told Prosecuting Attorney Houston Emory that he and his 16-year-old brother, Jabo, were abducted from the farm home of Fred Graves several months ago, forced into the wild hill region and made to wash clothes, work in farm fields and attend illicit liquor stills.

Homer Markham, 26; his brother, Albert, 19, and Ruben Von Marsh, 28, were locked in jail here in connection with the charges. Mace Markham, 50, father of the two brothers in jail, and Dallas Perkins, 35, were being sought by officers.

Jabo Fox is missing and Extra fears he may have been killed by the gang.

Parts of middle west GET NEEDED MOISTURE CHICAGO, May 14.—(P)—While most of the parched middle west had some relief from week-end rains, Minnesota, the Dakotas and western Kansas, where the drouth began, today had received none and were seeking governmental aid.

Eastern Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Ohio and Indiana all were either visited with rains that varied from downpours to sprinkles, or were promised showers soon.

While those rains did not, in all instances, settle the drouth question, they materially aided crops and put moisture into the subsoil.

However, the spring wheat belt still was parched, and many experts predicted total crop loss unless substantial rains came within the week.

French Steamship Executive Visits Talmadge in Garden

Governor Eugene Talmadge (left) and Marcel Olivier, president of the French Line, photographed when Mr. Olivier called to pay his respects to the chief executive early Monday morning. The governor was in his garden and the steamship executive tried his hand with a hoe.

Marcel Olivier, president of the French Line, and party of company officials paid Atlanta a brief visit Monday morning, taking time, however, to call at the executive mansion and pay their respects to Governor Talmadge and his daughter, Margaret.

Accompanying Mr. Olivier, who is former governor general of French provinces in Africa, grand officer of the Legion of Honor, author and statesman, were Henri Morin De Linclays, of New York, general manager of the French Line for the United States and Canada, and Maurice Olive, freight traffic manager in Paris.

The party is on a tour of the eastern seaboard, visiting the principal cities. Mr. Morin De Linclays met Governor Olivier at the Mexican border and with the others will continue their tour to Washington, Philadelphia and New York. They left early Monday from Candler field.

The greetings at the executive mansion were a novel and pleasing experience for the distinguished visitors as they were met by the governor in the garden where the state's chief executive, as is his early morning custom, was wielding a hoe among his flowers.

Governor Olivier told Governor Talmadge it was a matter of regret that he could not spend more time in Georgia, that he would have liked to visit Stone mountain and also to go to Warm Springs.

"The Warm Springs work is to be greatly extended, I understand," said Governor Olivier. "I learn that $1,000,000 was raised recently by entertainments on the occasion of the birthday of your president. That is marvellous. You and your people have my every good wish in this great work."

Mr. Morin De Linclays said that prospects were bright for larger tourist travel this year, both to and from Europe. "The revalued American dollar," he said, "will buy as much and in many cases more in European countries than did the old dollar in 1928, which is the year generally considered normal, financially. The reason is that there have been heavy reductions in the costs of travel abroad; ocean rates are much lower, hotels and restaurants, rail, automobile and bus, all have undergone a revision downward."

"As to travel in America by Europeans, the shift in currency values will make it possible now for many more travelers to come here and see this wonderful country of yours. This interchange of tourist travel will undoubtedly make for better understanding and more friendly relations between our countries."

POLITICAL MEETINGS PLANNED BY WOMEN

Special meetings throughout the summer for the purpose of stimulating interest in political campaigns now in progress, will be planned at a meeting of the Georgia Woman's Democratic Club, which will be held at the Piedmont hotel Wednesday.

The club is non-partisan in all primary elections, and is interested in better and more economical government. All women who are registered are urged to attend these meetings. Mrs. William P. Dunn is president of the club.

SUSPECT IN SLAYING RETAKEN IN ILLINOIS

STREATOR, Ill., May 14.—(P)—Vincent Okaren, 20, alleged slayer who escaped last night from officers who had transferred him from Mionok to Ottawa, Ill., was captured by Chief of Police Harry Reynolds, of Streator, at a farm home near here today.

Badly lacerated by barbed wire and undergrowth, Okaren offered no resistance. He said he had hidden at the farm most of the night. The owners of the farm said they were unaware of the youth's presence.

L. C. CONNALLY, 42, DIES AT CAPITAL

Member of Pioneer Georgia Family Was Attorney at Washington.

Lowndes Calhoun Connally, member of a widely known Georgia family, died Monday morning in Washington, D. C., where he was engaged in the practice of law. He was 42 years of age.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill, and burial will be in the College Park cemetery. The body will arrive in Atlanta at 8:35 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Connally was graduated from Georgia Tech and from the law school of Mercer University. He had resided in Washington for several years, and at the time of his death was connected with the department of justice in addition to practicing law.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Lucille Trammell, of College Park; a daughter, Miss Harriet Connally; his mother, Mrs. Emma Calhoun Connally; and a brother, S. N. Connally, of Chicago.

He was the son of the late S. N. Connally, and a grandson of the late Judge William Lowndes Calhoun and Mrs. Calhoun. His great-grandfather was James M. Calhoun, who was mayor of Atlanta during the War Between the States.

His family have been prominent in the growth and development of Atlanta since it was known as Marthasville.

Mr. Connally died unexpectedly Monday morning at his residence, though he had apparently been in good health Sunday night.

Pallbearers will be D. C. Lyle Jr., Edward Richardson, Dr. Calhoun McDougall, Homer Carmichael, Cochran Graves, John D. Williamson and George Longino.

To Speak Here

J. P. Friedman, of New York, resident partner of Touche, Niven and Company, who will address a meeting of local cost accountants at the Atlanta Athletic Club on Wednesday evening. His subject will be "Interpreting the New Federal Income Tax Law." Dinner at 6:30 o'clock will precede the discussion.

MRS. DEEMS TAYLOR GIVEN RENO DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., May 14.—(P)—Testifying at a private trial before District Judge Benjamin F. Currier, Mrs. Mary K. Taylor won a divorce from Joseph Deems Taylor, nationally-known composer and writer, on the ground of extreme cruelty here today.

The court approved a property settlement agreement which also provided for the custody of their 7-year-old daughter, Joan. They married at Newark, N. J., July 11, 1921.

DOG IN LITERATURE SUBJECT OF LECTURE

"The Dog Has His Day in Literature" will be the unusual topic of discussion at Rich's bookshop lecture this morning. Mrs. Emma Garrett Morris has chosen this subject with various eminent authors in mind. Mazo de la Roche ("Portrait of a Dog"), Virginia Woolf ("Flush"), Albert Payson Terhune, G. B. Stern, and Karol Capek are a few of the well-known writers whose works will be mentioned.

Dogs are undoubtedly the best-loved animals in the world, but few realize how many prominent authors have actually used them as heroes in books. Albert Payson Terhune has won an international reputation for his dog stories, but there are others better known in other branches of literature who have immortalized these creatures for book lovers. This is one of the regular series, "Half Hours With Modern Writers," given each Tuesday morning in Rich's bookshop promptly at 10 o'clock. The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

"spring fever" time is here

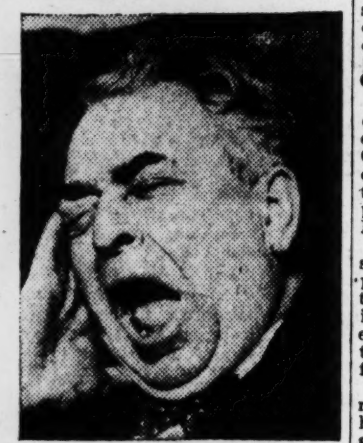

...and what does it mean to you?

JUST THIS: If you feel listless, tired, run-down, appetite dull, with a weak, let-down feeling... perhaps nervous and worn out... why not make an effort to "snap out" of this condition?

Try toning up your appetite... increasing your red-blood-cells—get in step with those who put zip and pep into everything they do... the best way to be happy and cheerful.

Colds, the "flu," or other illness, and poisons accumulated during the winter months, often diminish the number of red-blood-cells which are so vital in maintaining vigor... strength... and a clear skin.

You need a tonic—not just a so-called tonic... but a tonic that will tone up your blood... bring back to normal its red-cells... build up its hemo-glo-bin... stimulate the gastric juice flow. S.S.S. is specially designed to do this for you. Perhaps your blood is the cause of your trouble... it frequently is. Try S.S.S... take it just before meals. Unless your case is exceptional you should soon notice a pick-up in your appetite... your color... skin... pep... and energy should improve as your oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin increases. S.S.S. is truly a blood and body invigorating tonic. Its value has been proven by generations of use, as well as by modern scientific appraisal, and it is especially good as a Spring tonic. At all drug stores in two convenient sizes. Prosperity... IN THE SOUTH!

NATIONAL COTTON WEEK MAY 14-19

ONCE each year, it is fitting that a week should be set aside to dramatize and to focus attention on one of the greatest of America's products—COTTON.

To us of the Southland—this week should be particularly significant. Our Southern States, always destined to be the source of the raw material, now dominate in its consumption and conversion into finished products.

Greater stimulus in the use of cotton products means not only greater prosperity for our farmers, but also increased employment and increased prosperity for our textile mills.

To all whose interests are allied so closely to this effort, we wish the utmost success in promoting a larger and more widespread use of cotton. Let it be said of every man and woman in the South—"WE DO OUR PART" to this end.

GAS Speed BURNER OF A THOUSAND HEATS

The Magic Chef three-in-one Top Burner makes possible gas cooking at its best.

Turn it on low... and you have a gentle simmering burner.

Turn it on full... and you have a giant burner with intense fast heat, enough for the heaviest cooking job.

In between... you have medium... and a thousand other heats, one for every slightest turn of the valve.

There are four giant burners if you desire... four simmer burners... or four in-between-heats adjustable easily and instantly to any speed!

It's Non-Clogging, Too!

Here's another important advantage... the Magic Chef burner will not clog from boil-overs. It is only 2 1/2 inches in diameter and the gas openings are on the side. Therefore, under even the smallest utensil it is impossible for boil-overs to clog it.

That's the Magic Chef top burner... a marvel of efficiency... insuring even, economical heat for every cooking need.

The Magic Chef range which we are offering on the extremely low terms of $1.25 DOWN AND $1.25 A MONTH has this exclusive three-in-one non-clog burner. See it at our nearest store. Call JA. 5101 for further information, or ask any cooperating plumber.

$1.25 down AND A MONTH

will install this 1934 De Luxe model MAGIC CHEF gas range in your kitchen. The revolutionary three-in-one top burner is just one of its many advanced features.

ERLANGER TO REOPEN WITH PICTURE POLICY

Mayfair Pictures Leases
House to Show First-Run
Features at Low Price.

The Erlanger theater will reopen on Saturday, May 26, with a policy of first-run pictures at moderate admission charges, it became known Monday following the signing of a lease between the owners of the property and Mayfair Pictures Corporation.

Harry Hall, formerly manager of the Capitol theater, will be manager of the Erlanger under the new operation. Mr. Hall stated that only first-run pictures of the highest quality would be shown and that the price of admission would be low enough to appeal to all classes of patronage.

He said that there would be no attempt to bring lurid or sensational pictures to the theater, but that only the highest-class productions, pictures from producers who have hitherto lacked an outlet for their product in Atlanta, would be shown.

The Erlanger, when it reopens, will be equipped with the latest and most perfect projection machines, with a perfect screen, sound horns and all other necessary adjuncts to ideal presentation.

The new lease was arranged by W. F. Wincoff, representing owners of the property, and Ralph Peckham, general manager for this territory for Mayfair Pictures Corporation.

'Dancing Around' Revue On Stage at the Capitol

"Dancing Around" is the title of the stage show at the Capitol theater this week. It is suitable, in that the show is nine-tenths dancing. There is a line of seven girls who are shaped like and appealing disciples of Terpsichore, one or two girl soloists, a male dancer or two, etc., etc.

The star is a girl who does a dance dressed exclusively in an Indian head-dress, to all intents and purposes, she and the girl who solos the cat man share honors with their two co-feries.

There is a male quartet who sing not inacceptably and of course, the orchestral overture, under the baton of Enrico Leide, draws forth the best capabilities of the ten musicians on the rear stage platform.

Weakest part of the offering is the comedy. Of course, there probably isn't such a thing as brand-new gag, but it did seem Monday afternoon as though the comedian of this outfit had selected his jokes from the most worn of all in the Miller collection.

But, it's a dancing show and if it's fast and dancing you want to see, you'll find it, excellent and in infinitum, in "Dancing Around."

The feature picture on the program is "She Made Her Bed," with Robert Armstrong and Sally Eilers. It is a clever, well-told story and decidedly to be listed among the worth seeing films. The work of Robert Armstrong, as the moon-count husband, the outstanding item for comment.

There are also the usual number of short subjects with one especially laugh-provoking comedy with Thelma Todd and Zasu Pitts.

New Burlesque Group
In Debut at Atlanta

The new burlesque company at the Atlanta theater, for its opening Monday, gave a performance that ranked quite a lot better than the more recent shows of its predecessor, not quite as good as the best that has been seen here, but better than the former one.

There are a girl trio who sing, write their own lyrics. So, write your own ticket.

Some of the comedy in the new offering can do with renovation. The new group is not perfect, it is somewhat difficult to mention the performers by name, but the best comedian is the one with the flexible lips and the rhinestone on his nose. There are several others who do some good bits, but on the whole the comedy group would be improved with a little application of cleaning powder and the injection of trifle more real humor.

Not that they don't have some good acts and some clever blackouts. They do. This comment is merely on the impression as it is.

The chorus line is snappy and youthful, in fact in as far as looks and youth are concerned this department is "way ahead" of the rest of the line with two or three of the former girls, but as a whole it is a new bunch.

There are two featured women who run a close race for first honors in this branch of the entertainment. Marie DeVoe and Helen Reed. Marie does a couple of strips both in original and in imitation. There are several more before she finally drops the costume, but when she does get it off she displays one of the most fascinating, albeit rather buxom, figures yet seen at the Atlanta. Helen, if we must compare, drew more applause last night than Marie.

There is a girl trio who harmonize acceptably and a male vocalist who receives, and deserves, just about the customary reception accorded burlesque tenors. A couple of posing acts in which the youth and looks of the chorus prove useful adjuncts.

The crowd last night was quite a larger than the one at the Capitol Monday's indicating that local burlesque audiences desire a change.

MELTON GETS LIFE TERM AT CUTHBERT

Defendant Tells Jury
Dr. Crittenden Attacked
His Wife.

CUTHBERT, Ga., May 14.—(AP)—Bennie J. Melton, charged with murder in the killing of Dr. A. L. Crittenden on the golf course here last January, tonight was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty with a recommendation for mercy. Melton, who was convicted as to when sentence was passed.

On the stand Melton testified that Dr. Crittenden had criminally attacked his wife and defense attorneys argued justifiable homicide.

Georgia News
Told in Brief

Emory Man Honored.
GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 14.—A public examination for the degree of chemical engineer will be given Dr. Lucien Y. Dyrenforth, Jacksonville, next Saturday, at the University of Florida.

Dr. Dyrenforth received the degree of bachelor of science from the University of Florida in 1916, and additional degrees are M. D., Emory University, and M. S. D., University of Illinois. "Timber Tree" reservation and Some Problems Surrounding Florida Requirements in Preservative-Treated Wood," is the subject of his thesis.

Dalton Seeks Taxes.
DALTON, Ga., May 14.—At the last meeting of the city council Chief Britton was instructed to write and sell all property for unpaid taxes. Business is on the upgrade and for the first time in several years a decrease in the tax is being made to collect these back taxes.

Mayor McAfee designated May 14-19 as "Clean-Up-Paint-Up-Week" for a general overhauling of the city. Council voted to increase the pay of policemen from $75 to $90.

Peach Schedule Cut.
MACON, Ga., May 14.—(AP)—Middle Georgia peaches will be a day closer to New York breakfast tables under new rail schedules announced here.

H. D. Pollard, receiver for the Central Georgia, said that improved schedules for handling the crop this year would enable the railroads to reduce by one day the four-day period in transit required heretofore.

Thomas Revival.
BARNESVILLE, Ga., May 14.—Rev. Harry V. Smith, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Barnesville, is conducting revival services at the First Baptist church, of Barnesville, which Rev. C. O. English is pastor. This is the fifth consecutive meeting Rev. Smith has conducted, having held meetings in Barnesville, Dublin and now Thomas.

Flint Bar To Meet.
BARNESVILLE, Ga., May 14.—Members of the Barnesville Bar Association, Harvey Kennedy, Claude Christopher and E. O. Dobbis Sr., will attend the meeting of the Flint Bar Association in Indian Springs, Fla., May 17. Dr. W. R. Mackey, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Macon, will deliver the principal address and Judge George Forsyth, will be host at a chicken dinner.

Buys Auto Agency.
BARNESVILLE, Ga., May 14.—L. C. Tyus and J. W. Carriker, Barnesville businessmen, have purchased the Dunlap interest in the Lamar Chevrolet Agency here, and will continue to operate under the name of the best known automobile men in this section, and Tyus is a former vice president of the First National bank here.

Saturday School.
LEXINGTON, Ga., May 14.—Oglethorpe county high school, Lexington's Mason Academy are holding regular school sessions on Saturdays.

The added day is employed as a means of giving the pupils a busy week, and is a means of giving the pupils a busy week, and is a means of giving the pupils a busy week.

port in a perfect take off at 6:25 a. m. (eastern standard time). Pond and Sabell, a handful of friends bidding them farewell.

"We'll make it all right. Everything is in our favor." Their monoplane—named after the great Italian artist-engineer who centuries ago tried to fly the air with machines—carried 650 gallons of gasoline, sufficient for 45 hours.

The distance to Rome is 4,500 miles. The fliers expected to make it in 38 or 40 hours.

In Italy, the air ministry prepared two airports for the fliers: One, the civilian airport at Littorio; the other, the military base at Ciampino.

If successful, the fliers were calculated to reach their destination around 8 p. m. (Atlanta time) Tuesday.

ITALY EAGERLY AWAITS
ARRIVAL OF FLYING PAIR

ROME, May 14.—(AP)—Italians tonight were eagerly scanning reports in the flight of Captain Pond and Lieutenant Sabell, flying the Atlantic towards Rome.

Every one, from Mussolini, who was informed shortly after the aviators hopped off on Monday, is hoping that the fliers will overcome the apparent hoodoo on the United States-Rome route.

of legislative proposals has assured house passage. However, some trouble is looked for in the senate if cotton is included.

In approving the measure, the house agriculture committee made the point that with the regulation of trading in stocks and securities, it feared professional speculators would transfer their operations to grain exchanges.

A board composed of the secretaries of agriculture and commerce and the attorney-general would make regulations for the commodity markets, including limits on the amount of future holdings individuals might deal in at any one time. It would outlaw "wash sales," "bucket shops," indemnity trading and other practices and require the licensing of floor brokers, and federal road-building forces. It

Athen's Lodge Threat Brings Fair Sex Okay

ATHENS, Ga., May 14.—(AP)—A lodgegoer's wife, heartily approving the proposal of lodge officials to publish names of members attending meetings unless attendance increases, has let it be known she favors an amendment to the suggestion.

The threat of lodge officials to "expose" the absentees was circulated a few days ago.

The editor of the Banner-Herald today was in receipt of a letter from one of the fairer sex which intimated she was somewhat doubtful about the efficacy of the plan. What, she inferred, would prevent lodge officials from turning this boon for lodgegoers' wives into just another racket.

"May I suggest," she wrote, "that an unattractive middle-aged lady doorkeeper should be provided by every lodge with a signed card mailed out to wives next morning as to who was among those present at the meeting the night before?"

COUNTY OFFICERS
GATHER IN MACON

MACON, Ga., May 14.—(AP)—Addresses by Dr. S. V. Sanford, president of the University of Georgia, and Graham Wright, county attorney of Floyd county, will ensure the spotlight at the formal opening of the annual convention of the Association of County Commissioners of Georgia in the Macon auditorium tomorrow morning.

Tomorrow morning's session will include the welcome addresses of Mayor Herbert I. Smart and J. E. Yates, chairman of the Bibb county commissioners, and responses to welcomes by George F. Longino, chairman of the Fulton county board of commissioners; a brief address by President J. H. Griffith, Athens; reports by W. W. Telf. Albany, chairman of the executive committee, and J. J. Whitfield, Pulaski county, chairman of the legislative committee; appointment of resolutions and nominations committees; Memorial exercises for Fred Houser, Atlanta, ex-secretary-treasurer of the association, and J. Frank Pittman, Thomasville, ex-chairman of the executive committee.

Relations Complicate
Race at Thomasville

THOMASVILLE, Ga., May 12.—(AP)—Most candidates can figure themselves sure of a backing vote from family friends and business contacts, but there are complications in the city court judgeship race here.

C. E. Hay is a candidate for the office. So is his brother, former Mayor Dr. Roy Hay. And his brother-in-law, Roscoe Luke, incumbent, is seeking re-election.

To cap it off, Hay's law partner, J. J. Gaines, is an aspirant. There are two other candidates, Messrs. Craigsmiles and Earle, but Hay says there won't be any more family complications, for lack of lawyers of the blood.

LAMAR RUCKER SEEKS
POST IN STATE SENATE

ATHENS, Ga., May 14.—(AP)—Lamar C. Rucker, city attorney, has announced he will be a candidate for the state senate to succeed Hamilton McWhorter.

In a statement to voters he said he had no particular platform except "opposition to special privilege being granted by the legislature to any individual or group of individuals."

"My pet abomination," he said, "is the infamous law which allows money lenders to charge 3 1/2 per cent interest per month on loans of $300 or less. I have personal knowledge of the hardship that this works on the unfortunate poor. . . I pledge you my best efforts to remedy this situation."

CARTERSVILLE LIONS
CELEBRATE 5TH YEAR

CARTERSVILLE, May 14.—Dr. Witherspoon Dodge, of Atlanta, was guest of honor and principal speaker at a delightful dinner party held by the local Lions Club recently, which celebrated the fifth anniversary of the organization and also observed the regular semi-annual Ladies' Night.

Dr. Dodge, who is a member of the Atlanta Lions Club, came to Cartersville exactly five years ago to take part on the program in which the local club was chartered.

The party was attended by more than 60 prominent Cartersville people.

EPISCOPAL MEETING
SET FOR ST. SIMONS

BRUNSWICK, Ga., May 14.—(AP)—The diocesan convention of the Episcopal church in Georgia will open at Camp Reese at St. Simons' island tomorrow.

A conference of the clergy and a meeting of the executive council is on tomorrow's program. A celebration of the holy communion at Christ church, Frederica, will mark the opening of the convention Wednesday. The Right Rev. E. F. Reese, D. D., bishop of Georgia, will be the celebrant and will deliver his annual address to the convention.

ELBERTON MAN DIES
FROM BULLET WOUNDS

ELBERTON, Ga., May 14.—Phillip Costello, 40, was shot to death in a local filling station late last night. Costello was a member of the Spanish colony and was unmarried. He is about 50 years old and has a family. He came here a few months ago from Stone Mountain.

It is a stretch of about nine miles in Webster county.

Memorial Day.
POWDER SPRINGS, Ga., May 14.—The annual memorial and homecoming service was observed at the McEachern Memorial church near Powder Springs, Sunday, May 13. The following program was given: Welcome, Rev. Blake Craft, pastor; Music, James Watson; Sermon, Rev. N. P. Manning; Lunch; Sermon, Rev. A. J. Shankle.

Arnoldville Exercises.
LEXINGTON, Ga., May 14.—Commencement exercises for Arnoldville High school were delivered Sunday by the Rev. John Tate. John Gamble, of the Athens bar, delivered the literary address to the graduating class Monday night.

Vets Choose.
COLUMBUS, Ga., May 14.—At a reorganization meeting of the Masonic chapter, No. 7, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, R. D. Baker was elected commander, Saturday night. Other officers were: F. C. Jones, senior vice commander; G. H. Henderson, junior vice commander; E. B. Newberry, adjutant; George McMichael, chaplain; S. B. Hendrix, treasurer; and J. W. Smith and Antonio Spano Jr., sergeant-at-arms.

Surplus Syrup Sold.

Real 'Lamb in His Bosom' Characters

The principal characters in Caroline Miller's Pulitzer prize-winning novel, "Lamb in His Bosom," greeted the authors upon their return to the Cartersville home Monday. Top picture shows "Lamb" and "Cean" represented by Joe Pritchard and Mrs. Marion Barron—as they appeared in costume in the parade which followed the authors to her home after the arrival of the train, which was met by practically the entire population of Cartersville. Below is seen Mr. Miller and their three children—"Bill," "Nip" and "Tuck," as they stood on the sidelines and witnessed the homage paid the wife and mother. Mrs. Miller is shown in the inset.

Individualism Is at Stake,
Professor Tells Athens Meet

ATHENS, Ga., May 14.—(AP)—Professor H. Parker Willis, of Columbia University, told the institute of public affairs today American citizens must determine whether they will give political leaders the power of deciding questions or whether they will continue to make their own decisions on current issues.

He said that it was a matter that went to the foundations of American government and life in general.

Professor Willis took up various aspects of the past year's results, such as the price level, payment of debts, degree of employment of labor and foreign trade. He said the "promised improvement had not arrived and was not likely to arrive as things are going," but that it was not fair to reach final conclusions on large policies on the basis of 15 months' experience.

H. H. Bennett, director of the soil erosion service will address the closing session of the institute tomorrow morning on the problem of soil erosion.

Willis tonight criticized the administration's monetary policy, declaring, "We have greatly endangered the stability of foreign countries already supposedly on a firm monetary foundation."

Willis, member of the faculty of the New York institution who is credited with a major role in formation of the federal reserve system, pointed to dangers which he said are inherent in the New Deal from a political standpoint.

He quoted from a statement by Maxwell Stewart, of the Foreign Policy Association that "competent observers are asserting that economic recovery in the world as a whole has been increasingly hampered by the deflationary effects of dollar depreciation."

The "commodity dollar" came in for comment, Willis saying that at most it is an experiment, and advanced as such. He said the claim that "devaluation of our money would assist the payment of domestic debts" has not been borne out; that prices would rise, which, he said, has not been accomplished, and added that foreign trade has not been helped as predicted by supporters of the Roosevelt monetary policy.

LEGION MEETS TODAY
AT LAWRENCEVILLE

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., May 14.—Annual convention of the ninth district posts of the American Legion will be held in Lawrenceville, beginning at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The opening session will be devoted to business and reports of district officers, including Commander Ois. Pharr. Atlanta Post No. 1 will send its drum and bugle corps to participate in a parade during the day. A barbecue is also planned.

Tuesday night street dancing will be the chief entertainment. The meeting will be held at the courthouse square.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The present court will end its present term on June 4, recessing then until October 1. Opinions will be handed down on the next three Mondays.

RAMSPECK MAY HEAD CIVIL SERVICE GROUP

Georgia May Gain Third Committee Chairmanship.

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY.
WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—Georgia was in a strong position today to gain a third house committee chairmanship through the probable accession of Bob Ramspeck from the fifth (Atlanta) district, to the center chair of the civil service committee.

The chair will be vacated at the end of the present session by Lamar Jeffers of Alabama, who was defeated in his home state's recent primary.

Georgia's committee chairmen now are the veteran Carl Vinson, of the sixth (Macon-Milledgeville) district, naval affairs, and Homer Parker, first (Savannah) district, of elections No. 1.

Representative William I. Sizooch, democrat, New York, is the ranking member of the civil service committee, but he already was chairman of the patents committee and one member cannot hold two chairmanships. Thus, the succession of Ramspeck, next in line, to the center chair, was dependent on whether Sizooch would vacate the patents or civil service post.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha To Hold Installation On Wednesday

Phi Gamma chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha society will hold the annual installation of officers of the chapter on Wednesday evening, May 16, at 8 o'clock, at the Francis Virginia room. Mrs. Mary E. Evers is in charge of arrangements and an interesting program has been planned. Miss Jane Van de Vrede will give the installation address; Miss Elizabeth Greene will render vocal numbers, and Mrs. Robert E. King will present selections on the piano accompaniment.

The retiring officers are: Miss Elizabeth Greene, president; Miss Lucille Pruit, vice president; Miss Grace Barnes, recording secretary; Miss Ruby Richardson, treasurer; Miss Delphine Medlin, corresponding secretary, and Miss Ethel K. Ware, educational director.

Luncheons Planned For Horse Show

Plans are being made to serve luncheons of sandwiches, soft drinks and ice cream at the sixth annual horse show, to be held May 24, 25, 26, at Piedmont park. Those attending the show are requested to have lunch in the attractive booth that will be constructed near the ring. Several luncheon parties have already been arranged for each day.

Attractive tables and chairs will be arranged inside the booth and a number of attractive members of the Young Matrons' Circle for Tallulah Falls school, who are sponsoring the show for the Atlanta Horse Show Association, will act as waitresses.

The circle will have charge of the various concessions at the show, with Mrs. H. Irving Schweppe as chairman of sandwiches; Mrs. Davis Thornton, of soft drinks, and Mrs. Ben Parker, of ice cream.

Those working with Mrs. Schweppe will be on Thursday, Mesdames C. D. McCord, E. P. Carrier, Warren Hall, Bryant Sella, Ralph Williams, Freeman Strickland and Miss Palmer Dallas; on Friday, Mesdames Harris Robinson, Howard Dobbs, Cady Laird, R. A. Edmondson, Enos Hartman and George Hardin; and for Saturday, Mesdames Everett Thomas, Calhoun Young, Louis Stevenson, E. M. Sturhahn, Evarard Richardson Jr., Sam Worley and T. V. Morrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Give Musical Tea

Mr. and Mrs. Allan MacLean Walker entertained at a musical tea on Sunday afternoon at the Studio Arts building, in conclusion of music week. The tea assembled large groups of musicians and artists representing the various arts, with distinguished out-of-town guests. Members of the short story group of the Atlanta Writers Club, after a program meeting in Miss Cora Paxton Stewart's studio, joined the guests in the assembly room for tea and the musical program.

Taking part in the musical program were Nellie Nix Edwards, vocalist, accompanied at the piano by Miss Gaffney. The Studio Arts trio, consisting of Marie Pendley, pianist; Allan MacLean Walker, violinist, and Walter Sheets, violinist, rendered several selections. Beulah Shirley played two piano solos.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Walker in entertaining were the members of the studio arts assembly, Misses Annie Laurie Hill, Cora Paxton Stewart, Rosa Muller, Cornelia Cunningham, Lottie Hentsche, Marion Otis, Elizabeth Knowles, Mrs. Willis McCreary, Mrs. Ed Hafer, Mrs. Mary Craft Creighton. Serving at the punch table were Misses Barbara Baker, Mary Pritchard, Edna McCauley, Mary Virginia McConnell and Frances Harwell.

Mrs. Cunningham To Be Hostess.

Mrs. Alex Cunningham will entertain at bridge, followed by luncheon, at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning at her home at 917 Piedmont avenue.

Mrs. Cunningham's guests will include Mesdames R. K. Whitson, B. S. Barker, T. M. Stevens, L. B. Lockhart, E. E. Ramsey, S. A. White, Dorothy Rose and Miss Betty Cunningham.

Plans are being made for a fashion show to be given soon. Several projects are being undertaken by the guild and are to be carried out this summer.

Street Scene at Flower Show To Be Arranged by Mrs. Fleming

The first glimpse that visitors will glean at the Atlanta annual flower show, to be held on Friday and Saturday at 671 Peachtree street, will be a vista of a quaint street, to be arranged by Mrs. Malcolm Fleming. Barges, pottery and hand-wrought copper will line the street and each little shop will be canopied in cotton dyed in brilliant patterns. Grape vines and climbing roses will cover the walls and gay baskets from Mexico and Spain will spill brimmingful scene of the flower show.

loads of fruit and flowers on the pavement. Two-wheeled flower carts in many brilliant colors will carry potted geraniums or lilies. The tiny tables on a sidewalk cafe will be sheltered under the canopy where the thirsty visitor may eat or drink. Rare embroideries and hand-woven linens, done by patient fingers in far-off lands, will cover the tables and pretty young girls, in peasant costumes, will serve the guests. It will provide a gay and amusing spot and a fitting entrance to the colorful and Spain will spill brimmingful scene of the flower show.

Sisters Under the Skin

By S. K. Lauren

INSTALLMENT I.

John Hunter Yates sat at the keyboard of the huge, smooth piano, his hands vaulting, trying to recreate a passage from Beethoven's Sonata. His fingers moved clumsily over the keys. The music was awkward, halting. The spacious penthouse living room resounded the dissonant chords.

In back of him paced tall, thin, good-looking Zukowski. He strode over the thick rug quickly as though trying to escape from Beethoven's Sonata. John Hunter Yates. Suddenly his hands flew to his ears, shutting out the sound.

"Yates—stop!" Zukowski's voice was a cannon's roar in the room.

Yates looked up in surprise. "What's the matter, Zukowski?"

"Beethoven," said Zukowski, "has been dead a long time. Why do you want to kill him all over again?"

Disappointment was in Yates' eyes. "I thought it was Beethoven."

"I'm one of your greatest admirers—but you'll never learn to play the Sonata."

"If that's it, it's your fault. I'll fire you and get the best teacher in the world."

Zukowski almost smiled. "All right—fire me. You'll still sing me a favor. Instead of teaching, I should be composing. I'll go to Paris, where I'll be appreciated."

"You'll go to his feet. I'll let you go to tell you teach me to play that Sonata."

"In ten million years, you won't learn to play that Sonata."

"I'll get it if I have to hire Bachmanoff!"

"Rachmaninoff—Gabirowitch—Paderewski—any of them all together couldn't do it." Zukowski stared at Yates, then suddenly, "Mr. Yates, would you take me the way I am and make me general manager of your company?"

"No, I wouldn't give you a job as filing clerk. You're not equipped for it."

"Are you," asked Zukowski, triumphantly, "equipped to play Sonatas?"

"That's different."

"Mr. Yates, you've been in business 30 years. So have I. I played the piano when I was 2 years old. I've been playing ever since. Some day, maybe, I'll learn how. But you—you're a rich. You could afford to hire a whole symphony orchestra—the best in the country. You could pay them to play for you in your garden every night. Think of it. A whole orchestra to play for one man."

Yates was impatient. "Anybody can do that by tuning in on the radio. You don't understand. I'm not satisfied to listen to music. I want to make music."

"But you can't make up your mind all of a sudden like an angel."

Yates held up his hand. "I made up my mind before you were born. Every year I planned to begin, but I kept putting it off. I was too busy making money."

"Mr. Yates, there are some things money can't buy."

"That for instance?" Yates smiled.

Zukowski spread wide his 10 fingers. "These, for instance. These fingers. You can't buy them—they have to be born with them. And something inside—" he tapped his chest—"in here that goes with them. You haven't got it."

Yates shrugged. "I'll get it. I always get what I want. And if you can't teach me—"

"All right—I'll teach you. I'll teach you—I'll be blue in the face. And I'll charge you 10 times as much as anybody else. Then I can give lessons free to people who belong at a circus."

Yates grinned. "You know what I like about you, Zukowski? You speak your mind."

"I know," Zukowski rattled his teeth—"play—torture that poor dead Beethoven. Make him turn over in his grave!"

Yates turned and started to finger the keyboard. Then he saw the most of the world's greatest bankers waited—waited while John Hunter Yates endeavored to play the Beethoven sonata.

"I know," he knew, "the door."

"Come in," called Yates.

It was Miss Gower, Yates' efficient secretary. "They're here."

"How long have they been waiting?"

"Half an hour."

Yates stood up and donned his coat. "Ought to keep 'em waiting 'til morning. I've got a few things to do myself." He turned to Zukowski. "Now, don't go away, Zukowski. Wait for me."

Yates walked out of the office, followed by Miss Gower. In a few minutes he was escorting the three bankers into the huge directors' room. The bankers stopped short at the threshold, for six young men, in earnest conversation, were around the long directors' table.

"May I ask you bankers," inquired one of the young men,

"The gentlemen," the press, answered Yates. "They're here at my invitation. Any objections?"

"I was under the impression this was going to be a private conference."

"You were mistaken," said Yates. "I was considering the possibility of getting a radio hookup so that the whole nation could listen to this meeting, but I decided that wouldn't be practical, so I did the next best thing. The fate of one of the greatest corporations in the country, the fate in the world—is to be decided here this morning. We're not concerned with merely a corporation—" He walked to a large map hanging on the wall showing the holdings of the vast holdings of the Yates Company. "The map of the United States is a map of the Yates Company. You gentlemen are heavily interested in Yates Corporation. But you've been doing business too long behind locked doors. If you dismiss these reporters it's against my wishes."

John Hunter Yates, spoke nervously. "Mr. Yates, you talk as though we had something to hide."

"We're perfectly willing to put our cards on the table," added the second.

Brown, the third, said, "I'm not accustomed to doing business with reporters around—but I guess it's all right."

"In that case," said Yates, smiling, "gentlemen, be seated."

"I can state our position briefly and clearly. The banks we represent are not only involved in this corporation. And now—because of plans for expansion—we are asked by Mr. Yates for a further loan involving ten million dollars. Now, a small amount, even for Mr. Yates."

Yates' face was expressionless. "What you say is true. But let me state that I'm in a position to personally put up that money and still have enough left to buy an occasional sandwich and cup of coffee."

Jones bristled. "Then why don't you do it?"

"Because," answered Yates, "as you just stated, you gentlemen are heavily involved. It's your company as much as mine. It ceased to be mine the first day I sought outside capital. That was 10 years ago—and ever since then you've been trying to take it away from me. I've tried to drown this great corporation in an ocean of watered stocks and bonds and debentures and certificates."

"And you're trying to drown this meeting about Jones in an ocean of adjectives. You can't do it. We're not going to let you up any more money unless you get what we want."

"Be good enough," said Yates sternly, "to state what you're after."

"Control!"

"All right. If I refuse? A receivership. I suppose you're not interested in the stockholders who have their money invested in this business? You're not interested in the employees who depend on this business for their livelihood? You'd scuttle it all—wreck everything—just to gain your point. You're using that threat of a receivership as a guinea pig to kick up to my head. 'Hands up! Shell out! Kick in!' I'm glad the newspapermen are here. I'm glad they have a chance to witness this."

Smith jumped to his feet. "Just a moment, please—please! I'm sure there's a misunderstanding here."

Brown stammered with nervousness. "Gentlemen, please! There's no necessity for all this ill feeling. After all, it's only a matter of business. We're not making any demands."

"You've just well considered Yates. Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute. Conditions have made it necessary for me to get refinancing. Do we have to go to the wall?"

"Now, look here, Yates—" started Jones.

"There'll be no compromise of any sort, as far as I'm concerned. You'll give up the money without any strings. And if you refuse I'll ask for a receivership myself—but, mark you, gentlemen, I'll tell why, what the case is. Take it or leave it. Yates stared defiantly."

Smith was panicky. "We should like a few moments to talk this over among ourselves."

Yates restrained from chucking. "Go ahead. Use my office."

Fifteen minutes later the bankers sat in a small room. They had seated themselves around the table and the curious reporters waited patiently for the decision.

Smith stood up. "We've talked this over," he said slowly, "and we've decided to make the loan, Mr. Yates."

"Unconditionally?" queried Yates.

"Unconditionally."

The conference ended. The reporters left to blast their story. The bankers, somewhat crestfallen, followed Yates.

Yates immediately gathered his faithful executive staff in the room. He sat down before them, leaning back heavily in the chair. They were all busy open. Yates turned and he started to speak—for John Hunter Yates was resigning—turning over his presidency to another. Stalled question.

Yates answered them calmly. "I'll tell you why. A week ago, gentlemen, Miss Gower placed a memorandum on my desk—told me it here with me. Permit me to read it to you. 'From Miss Gower to Mr. Yates. To-day—you are 49 years old. Miss Gower, I wasn't particularly happy to see you resign. You're a very efficient secretary; you forget nothing—not even the things I want to forget. I want you to promise me, Miss Gower, to send me a memo. Will you?'"

"No, sir."

Yates smiled. "Forty-nine isn't so bad. I can still cling to the world and make much of it. It's more important—that I'm in the forties. Most people are under the impression that between 49 and 50 there's the lapse of only a single day. It's not so. There's a lifetime in that year. I might have ignored the memorandum from Miss Gower—but this morning I saw something else which did concern me tremendously. I was informed by a gentleman named Zukowski—my piano teacher—that I'm not capable and never will be capable of playing the Beethoven sonata. I can read your thoughts, gentlemen. You're saying to yourselves, 'This man Yates has suddenly gone mad. He's a fit subject for a lunatic asylum. But I've made up my mind. For 30 years I've been a slave to this company. I've been a prisoner in this world of mine. I've tried to drown it, but I've made a mistake. I'm resigning as president of the corporation and chairman of the board of directors.' Yates stood up. "And now you're all using me, gentlemen. I have a most important engagement."

LITTLE TRIPS INTO NATURE.

II--DIATOMS AND ALGAE.

The diatom is a little plant, and the name came from Greek words meaning "cut in two." It is so small that we need a microscope to study it. Thousands of different kinds have been found by scientists, and more than 4,000 books and scientific articles have been written about them.

Greatly enlarged view of a green alga, showing "tublets" which take the place of roots.

Diatoms live in fresh and in salt water and gather in colonies. Some kinds fasten themselves to stones or wood under water, making a slippery coating which is not very pleasant to touch.

Other diatoms float freely in the water, and their number is almost beyond belief. A test of a quart of water taken from the North sea showed that it contained close to 1,250,000 diatoms.

Diatoms, especially those which float, form food for tiny animals of the sea. The tiny animals are eaten by small fish; and the small fish in their turn are eaten by big fish. Thus the little plants play an important part in the drama of life in the water.

Dead diatoms sink to the bottom, and help to form ooze.

The most amazing diatoms are those which swim during a certain stage of life. The motion has been called "gliding," and is not the same as floating with moving water. Because of the swimming power, these diatoms were classed at one time as "animals," but more careful study has shown that they belong to the plant kingdom. They are close to the "border" between plants and animals.

The strange name, meaning "cut in two," arose from the fact that a diatom will divide into two parts. Each part will divide again; and this sort of thing will take place from 25 times to more than 50 times in a season.

It has been figured that dividing 50 times would bring from a single diatom almost 583,000,000,000,000 diatoms! Of course many diatoms die along the way—if they did not they would fill the oceans with the passing of time.

Diatoms belong to the great "alga" family, which includes seaweeds and water plants of 12,000 kinds. There are green algae, red algae, brown algae, and blue-green algae. They differ greatly in size, from the tiny diatoms to sea plants many feet high. Some kinds of algae grow to mud or sand under water, and others grow in the open air. The green covering of many tree trunks is due to the presence of algae.

President of Woman's Club

Dr. Thomas B. Clegg

SUMTER, S. C., May 14.—The marriage of Miss Mammie McCollum, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Walsh McCollum, and Dr. Thomas Boykin Clegg, of Greenville, took place at noon today, in Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, South the Rev. C. C. Herbert, D. D., pastor of the church performing the ceremony. The date marked the thirty-second anniversary of the marriage of the bride's parents.

Dr. Pre Rham, of Greenville, soloist, sang as the audience assembled, with Mrs. Rham at the organ, "I Love You, Truly," a song sung at the marriage ceremony of the bride's parents; "O Promise Me," and "God Touched a Rose." During the ceremony Mrs. Rham played on the organ, "To a Wife's Rose."

Ushers were Harold K. Storem, George R. Morgan, Perry E. Gwin, and J. Edward Hart. Mrs. Tracy McCollum, the bride's mother, wearing a white ensemble and carrying an arm bouquet of pink snapdragons, was dame of honor. The maid of honor was Miss Margaret McCollum, sister of the bride. She wore a yellow ensemble with brown accessories and carried an arm bouquet of yellow snapdragons.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a moss green ensemble with brown accessories, and carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Lamar L. Clegg, of Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., as his best man.

Immediately following the church ceremony members of the bridal party, the two families and out-of-town guests attending the wedding were entertained at an informal reception.

Dr. and Mrs. Clegg left by motor on their bridal trip, from which they will return to make their home in Greenville, where he is associate surgeon at the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mrs. Ira T. Dr. Thomas B. Clegg

SUMTER, S. C., May 14.—The marriage of Miss Mammie McCollum, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Walsh McCollum, and Dr. Thomas Boykin Clegg, of Greenville, took place at noon today, in Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, South the Rev. C. C. Herbert, D. D., pastor of the church performing the ceremony. The date marked the thirty-second anniversary of the marriage of the bride's parents.

Dr. Pre Rham, of Greenville, soloist, sang as the audience assembled, with Mrs. Rham at the organ, "I Love You, Truly," a song sung at the marriage ceremony of the bride's parents; "O Promise Me," and "God Touched a Rose." During the ceremony Mrs. Rham played on the organ, "To a Wife's Rose."

WOOD'S LOTTERY BILL

IS PASSED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The House today gave its sanction to a measure to permit newspapers to announce winners and prizes in lotteries held by churches and like organizations.

The bill, by Representative Wood

(D-Ga.) now goes to the senate. The proposal is designed to exempt such announcements from statutes forbidding that type of information from being carried in the mails.
